

'DRAFT ROOSEVELT' IS BATTLE CRY AFTER HE SAYS HE'S NO CANDIDATE

Spain Severs Chilean Ties in Startling Move

Says Anti-Nationalist Campaign Has 'Reached Intolerable Limits'

By The Associated Press.
MADRID, July 16.—Spain severed diplomatic relations with Chile tonight in a startling move against an American republic now busy combating pro-Nazi elements.

The Spanish foreign ministry said it broke off relations because of the Chilean government's tolerance of an anti-Nationalist campaign which has "reached intolerable limits."

The Chilean charge d'affaires in Madrid was handed his passports and the Spanish diplomatic representatives in Chile were ordered home immediately.

Only yesterday, the Chilean government took stern action against alleged subversive elements, raiding headquarters of the Nationalist and Popular Socialist (Nazi) parties and ordering dissolution of "all apparently political organizations" formed by "Rightists."

Chilean Interior Minister Humberto Alvarez announced Monday that documents seized by police in the raids disclosed "activities against the public order."

He said street disorders had been provoked by "Rightists" and members of the Popular Socialist vanguard movements, known formerly as the Nacista (Nazi) party, 65 members of which were killed in an unsuccessful plot September 5, 1938.

Nine persons were arrested in Santiago Sunday, accused of setting off noise-bombs in the streets and distributing pamphlets attacking President Pedro Aguirre Cerda for having pardoned the carabineros, who killed the Nacistas in 1938.

On the surface, at least, all this would appear to be purely an internal matter for Chile, hardly warranting the breaking off of diplomatic relations by Spain.

That more significance attached, however, was not doubted by observers.

Chile only today jumped into the headlines when Foreign Minister Cristobal Saenz disclosed that he was studying a note from the United States on establishment of a protectorate over European possessions in Latin America.

Gives No Details.

He gave no details, and it was considered probable that the note related to proposals already advanced by Latin-American countries for such a protectorate rather than to any proposals originated by the United States.

Informed persons in Washington, however, said the United States was sounding out other American nations on their attitudes toward such a program as part of the preliminaries to questions likely to come before the conference opening in Havana next Sunday.

HARBORING LOYALISTS IS SEEN AS CAUSE

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(AP)—Chilean, embassy officials said tonight that Spain's severing of diplomatic relations with Chile probably was a result of the long-standing controversy over the action of their Madrid embassy in giving asylum to 17 Loyalists at the end of the Spanish civil war.

Constitution Buys Property On Alabama, Forsyth Corner

Strip of Adjoining Land Also Acquired; Property Faces Southern Approach To Viaduct Across From Present Plant.

By PRESS HUDDLESTON,
Real Estate Editor.

A large real estate deal involving uptown business property was closed yesterday, when The Constitution Publishing Company purchased the two-story triangular brick building at the northwest corner of Alabama and Forsyth streets, and in addition purchased a wide strip of adjoining land just in the rear of the building.

The deal was a cash consideration for both properties, though no price was announced.

The property lies diagonally across from the building occupied at present by The Constitution, the Forsyth street frontage facing the south approach to the Forsyth street viaduct.

The building, erected some 60 to 70 years ago, is completely occupied, and negotiations for its purchase and for the strip in the rear were handled by Robert R. Otis Company, local realtors. Titles to both properties were examined and guaranteed by the Atlanta Title and Trust Company. The legal details in connection with the transaction were handled for The Constitution by Allen Post, local attorney.

Plans for improvement of the newly acquired property have not been announced, but it is understood the tract has been acquired for future expansion.

Triangular Block.
Including the two purchases, the newspaper company has obtained a total of more than 18,227 square feet of space. The tract on which the present building stands is a complete triangular block. It faces 112.65 feet on Forsyth street on the east, and 206.6 feet on the south side, on Alabama street. A sharp point at the extreme west end, 22.6x25.08 feet, immediately in front of city fire headquarters, also was taken over by the publishing company to secure the entire block in the deal. The wall of the structure in the rear runs east and west along the Central of Georgia railroad tracks for 230.35 feet.

Dimensions of Strip.
The additional strip is 28.94 feet wide at the west end, extending 159.55 feet east, then slanting off 65 more feet to the beginning point of the building, where it joins the Forsyth street viaduct.

The property, due to its freedom from obstruction on both Alabama and Forsyth streets, and its frontage on railroad tracks in the rear, will give an added advantage in the future to any building or improvements made on it.

Windsor, Wally To Fly To U. S. This Week

LONDON, July 16.—(AP)—The Duke of Windsor, eager to take up his new duties as governor-general and commander-in-chief of the Bahamas, has arranged to fly by clipper to New York this week with his Baltimore-born duchess, the former Wallis Warfield Simpson.

Tarrying scarcely at all in the United States, they will speed on by air to Nassau to take up the colonial overlordship of the little island chain "sub-kingdom" off the Florida coast.

The next clipper is scheduled to leave Lisbon Thursday.

Senator Wheeler Leads 3-to-1 in Montana

HELENA, Mont., July 16.—(AP)—Senator Burton K. Wheeler, isolationist leader and potential presidential nominee, held a three-to-one lead over his opponent for the Democratic senatorial nomination, Attorney General Harrison J. Freebourn, in early returns from today's primary voting.

With unofficial returns from 29 of the state's 1,195 precincts tabulated, the vote stood:

Wheeler, 3,246; Freebourn, 1,264.

Detective Shot As He Arrests Holdup Suspect

Two Youths Held in Connection With Liquor Store Robbery.

Detective H. F. Brown was shot and wounded in the right hand yesterday while arresting one of three youths whom he and another detective encountered following a holdup at the Eagle liquor store, 615 Whitehall street.

One youth escaped. Two others were arrested. They were listed by police as H. E. Green and Ralph Allen, 28, of an Echo street address. Green was charged with assault-attempt to murder, and holdup. Allen was charged with holdup.

Detective J. M. Jackson, Brown's partner, reported that J. R. Hammond, clerk in the store, and Jimmie Norton, a customer, the victims of the holdup, later identified Green and Allen as the alleged bandits.

Enter Store.

Hammond told the detectives that Green and Allen entered the store and ordered a pint of whiskey, the officers said. He turned his back to reach for a bottle and when he faced them, he told police, one of the pair drew a revolver. Meanwhile, a third youth was at the wheel of a car parked outside the store.

Hammond, according to the police, said he was robbed of $35 from the cash register and that his $40 wrist watch was also taken. Norton told police he was robbed of $2.

Detectives Jackson and Brown reported that, unaware of the robbery at the liquor store, they ordered the alleged bandit car to halt as the vehicle turned from Central avenue into Rawson street at high speed.

The car containing the three youths skidded to a halt at the curb. The occupants jumped out and ran. The detectives leaped from the automobile and gave chase. Jackson apprehended Allen, while Brown ran after the other two.

One Escapes.
One of the youths escaped, but Brown caught Green following a three-block chase. While walking to the police car, Green, the detectives reported, drew a .38-caliber revolver and fired several shots. A bullet struck Brown's hand.

Three other bullets went wild over Jackson's head, he reported, and another crashed into the side of the police car. The detectives then grappled in a hand-to-hand fight with the pair and subdued them after a short struggle.

Green and Allen were treated for cuts and bruises at Grady hospital and then lodged in the police station. The detectives said the money and watch were found on Green.

Famous Surgeon Ends Life in Paris

VICHY, France, July 16.—(UP)—Count Thierry de Martel, France's most famous surgeon, committed suicide the day the German army occupied Paris, it was revealed today.

The count, originator of neurosurgery and chief surgeon of the American hospital, committed suicide with an injection of strychnine.

He left a message to United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt saying:

"If I stay in Paris it is like putting a signed check in the enemy's hands. If I stay in Paris dead it is a check without funds. . . . Adieu."

He was trapped in Paris by the German forces of occupation because he promised his superiors that he would remain at his post.

GEORGIA TO THE FORE—It was Georgia's standard, gripped in the eager hand of Governor Rivers, that was first in the rush of state banners toward the speakers' platform last night as Chairman Alben Barkley's address was interrupted by a lengthy and enthusiastic demonstration for President Roosevelt. Four prominent Georgians here meet under their state banner at the Democratic convention in Chicago before Barkley's dramatic revelation of Roosevelt's stand. With a smile for the cameraman, they are, left to right, Mrs. Clem Rainey, Dawson, a delegate; Governor Rivers, national committeeman; Mrs. Jim L. Gillis, of Soperton, wife of the chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, and Major Clark Howell, editor and publisher of The Constitution and chairman of the Georgia delegation. Nominations for president begin tomorrow.

Labor Leaders Ridicule Pegler For Criticisms

Urge His Presidential Nomination in Sarcastic Telegram.

Atlanta labor leaders yesterday turned their guns on Columnist Westbrook Pegler by sending a sarcastic telegram to Chicago's Mayor Edward J. Kelly, advocating that Pegler be nominated for president.

The telegram was a reply to Pegler's column of yesterday morning, in which he charged that the Democratic convention was meeting as "the guest of the most loathsome and defiant alliance of crime and politics in the United States at present, and possibly in the nation's history."

"Why don't you Democrats do the only sensible thing there is to do, namely: Nominate Westbrook Pegler for the presidency?" Albert W. Gossett, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, and James F. Barrett, southern publicity director of the American Federation of Labor, asked in the message.

Continuing their attack on the columnist, who has been severely critical of William Green and the American Federation of Labor, the Atlanta leaders said:

"He (Pegler) could be President and the cabinet and the head of all departments, and do it all a million times better than all Presidents and cabinets have done since Washington, as Mr. Pegler no doubt will admit. He could be mayor of Chicago, and run that city by remote control from Washington, and do a whole of a big job with it, as Pegler will readily admit."

"Pegler's self-acknowledged greatness, purity and perfection would cure all the ills of the world in 24 hours if you Democrats had the wisdom to nominate him and turn the affairs of the nation over to him. Within 90 days Pegler would rewrite the Ten Commandments, rearrange the Beautitudes, revise the story of Christ, rediscove America, remove the Statue of Liberty, replace the Declaration of Independence with a real document of his own, and restore absolute monarchy with himself as monarch of all America."

McGill Describes Wild Tumult As Delegates Shout for F.D.R.

By RALPH MCGILL.

CONVENTION HALL, CHICAGO, July 16.—Senator Alben Barkley completed his address before the Democratic convention tonight at nine minutes past eleven o'clock.

A page rushed forward during the applause and handed the Senator a huge twist of Kentucky tobacco.

Barkley took it and said: "My friends from Kentucky have sent me this huge twist of tobacco. I would like to keep it as a memento of this convention but I think I will send it to Willie to keep him from chewing the rag."

Laughter, Applause.
There was laughter and applause and then Barkley said: "I have another message."

This was one of the most historic moments in the history of American politics. The great crowd grew quiet. Someone shouted "We want Roosevelt!" and the crowd hushed him quiet. They wanted to hear.

Barkley then gave them the President's message, which said that he was not a candidate, had not been and sincerely had no desire to continue in office. And that he wished all delegates to feel free to vote for whom they wished.

It was a poser. In effect, it left the convention exactly where it was before. Roosevelt could be the candidate if the delegates wished him.

Brief Silence.

The silence lasted but a few seconds and then the standards of at least 45 states went into another parade. It was a Roosevelt demonstration.

Barkley stood mopping his face. He had given the crowd and the nation a line which will be repeated often during this campaign.

This was when he said the Republican convention and the nomination of Willkie was a second charge of the light brigade at the heroic battle of kilowatt.

The demonstration gained in intensity.

3 Communities Plan Soap Box Tryouts Today

Rome, Madison, Marietta Boys Seek Entry in Race Here.

Over 100 speed-conscious boys will line their Soap Box Derby racers along the course at Rome this morning for a zone elimination which will send a winner into the state finals.

Likewise, entrants at Marietta and Madison will take their first test today, and from each of those towns will come a zone champion who will take his place later in the summer with the cream of Georgia's amateur racers.

Sponsored by The Constitution and the Chevrolet Motor Company, the derby is in its seventh year, and this time is attracting nearly 1,500 youngsters from all parts of the state. The north Georgia finals will be run down North Side drive in Atlanta on July 27.

Two more zone races will be held this week, one at Newnan tomorrow, and another in Buford Saturday. Both events will begin at 2 o'clock.

Rome's elimination contest, starting at 8 o'clock this morning, is the first ever to be held in that city. It is sponsored by the News-Tribune and the G. L. Hight Motor Company. The Rome finals will begin about 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Marietta and Madison each will be holding its third Soap Box race, but with twice as many entrants as ever before. In Madison boys from Gainesville and Hall county also will compete.

Willkie Seeks Hoover For Talk on Campaign

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 16.—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie sent Herbert Hoover today a message that it was his "earnest desire" to talk with him regarding problems of the forthcoming campaign.

Willkie told his press conference he had asked Paul C. Smith, an editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, to deliver the message to the former President. Smith told reporters that Mr. Hoover was "100 per cent for Willkie."

Has 'No Desire' To Run Again, F. D. R. Asserts

Statement Sends Delegates Into Prolonged, Noisy Demonstration.

By The Associated Press.
CHICAGO STADIUM,

July 16.—Undeterred by President Roosevelt's first and long-awaited assertion on the third term—a statement that he had no "desire or purpose" to run again—the Democratic national convention loudly demanded tonight that the Chief Executive be drafted for another term.

The President's statement, read to the convention by Senator Alben Barkley, served only to send the delegates into a prolonged and noisy demonstration which had all but a few state standards parading the aisles, and the big crowd shouting over and over what had become its theme: "We want Roosevelt."

Pro-Roosevelt leaders went steadily ahead meanwhile with their plans to accomplish the chief executive's renomination, feeling certain that, particularly after tonight's big demonstration, he would comply with the convention's demand.

"The President," Barkley read to a suddenly hushed convention, "has never had, and has not today, any desire or purpose to continue in the office of president, to be a candidate for that office, or to be nominated by the convention for that office.

Delegates Voted Freely.

"He wishes in all earnestness and sincerity to make it clear that all of the delegates to this convention are free to vote for any candidate."

Leaders of the "draft Roosevelt" movement promptly interpreted the message as placing no obstacles in their path. They made that clear in a statement after statement, promptly issued.

Sees Nomination Tonight.

Harry Hopkins, secretary of commerce, and Roosevelt liaison man here, predicted that Mr. Roosevelt would be nominated by acclamation tomorrow night, and Senator James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, the third-term floor leader, said that in his opinion nothing could delay the nomination beyond that point.

(The convention program had not called for presidential balloting before Thursday.)

Hopkins said he felt sure that "the situation that has developed in the past year and particularly our domestic problems that are related to that" would be "compelling reasons" why Mr. Roosevelt would accept renomination.

"Roosevelt is wanted not only by these delegates but what is far more important by the great masses of American people," Hopkins said.

While the leaders issued their statements the vast throng kept up an unceasing din. The great stadium organ, which inaugurated the 1932 Roosevelt theme song, "Happy Days Are Here Again," thundered that lively tune, over and over again.

And from the microphones scattered about the floor, voice after voice proclaimed that state after

Free-for-All Fight Looming Over the Post of Vice President

Only President Can Prevent Chicago Battle

Word From Roosevelt as to Choice Would Settle Question.

CHICAGO, July 16.—(AP)—Only word from President Roosevelt as to his preference for a vice presidential nominee appeared capable tonight of forestalling a free-for-all over second place on the Democratic ticket.

Ever since they arrived here last weekend state delegations have been picking and choosing among the men available for the place, but instead of shortening the list of possibilities this process had added to it.

Moreover, Mr. Roosevelt's convention spokesmen, while they are known to have been looking over the field, let it be known that they had reached no decision. Secretary of Commerce Hopkins said when asked about a vice presidential nominee that "I wouldn't know about that."

To Support Rivers.

Leaders of the Georgia contingent decided tonight to support their Governor, E. D. Rivers, for the place unless President Roosevelt—they said they assumed he would be nominated and would accept—himself designated the man he wanted for a running mate.

Friends of Associate Justice William O. Douglas, of the supreme court, undertook greater activity in his behalf, although they insisted they acted without his knowledge. And in the Kentucky delegation, leaders conspired on a plan to rally support to one of their senators, Alben W. Barkley and A. B. Chandler, for the vice presidency.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace was boosted for the nomination by Secretary of Labor Perkins.

Governor Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri, gave new force to the vice presidential effort his supporters have been making with the statement that while he was "not announcing a candidate" he had "told the boys" he was not "going to hold them back any longer."

Jones Supported.

Reports circulated, meanwhile, that James A. Farley was backing Jesse Jones, the federal loan administrator, for vice president.

House Speaker William Bankhead, of Alabama, was reported to be gaining strength in the California delegation for the vice presidential campaign which his backers have undertaken.

The availability of Secretary of State Hull was thrown into doubt by Representative Albert Gore, of Tennessee, Hull's home state. Gore, explaining his statement was based upon a recent conversation he had with Hull in Washington, declared that the secretary did not want his name presented for the vice presidency under any circumstances.

PROTEST SWEDEN'S ACTION.

LONDON, July 16.—(AP)—Norwegian circles disclosed today that a protest had been made by the exiled government here to Stockholm against Sweden's decision to allow the transit of German war materials and soldiers to and from Norway across Swedish territory.

VOICE OF THE PRESIDENT—Senator Alben Barkley last night disclosed the third-term attitude of President Roosevelt to a boisterous, drama-packed convention. The President said he was not a candidate, but delegates are free to vote for anyone.

Has 'No Desire' To Run Again, F. D. R. Asserts

state "wants Roosevelt." The confusion once reached a semblance of organization, with Senators Claude Pepper, of Florida, and Josh Lee, of Oklahoma, leading the crowd in thunderous cries of "We want Roosevelt" over and over.

But there were some dissenters. Representative Elmer J. Ryan, a Minnesota delegate, issued a statement saying the convention was "being run by a group of White House manipulators."

The "Corcoran-Cohen-Hopkins group has induced a tired president to accede to a third-term draft," he said. "By White House influence, this small clique has so far been able to kill off the candidacies of other capable Democrats."

Willkie Near Radio. From Colorado Springs, meanwhile, came a statement from Wendell Willkie, the Republican nominee, who had had an ear to his hotel radio. Willkie reiterated his prediction that Mr. Roosevelt would be "nominated on the first ballot and would accept."

Senator Clark, of Idaho, said that Senator Wheeler, of Montana, would stay in the race. Clark added that he himself would put Wheeler's name in nomination. Word came from Garner headquarters that the vice president was still in the race.

The great demonstration continued for a good 30 minutes. Then the night party's platform committee came to a final agreement upon the contents of that document, and planned to present it to the convention at 2 p. m. (Atlanta time) tomorrow.

No sooner had Barkley finished than the tumultuous demonstration of an earlier hour was resumed by the crowd shouting, calls of "we want Roosevelt," whistling, bell-ringing, cheering and stomping.

Senator Byrnes quickly sounded the viewpoint of the pro-third-term voices by telling reporters that the demonstration on the floor and the cries of "we want Roosevelt" had answered the President.

"His Sincere Views." "I know that the President's statement represents his sincere views," Byrnes said. "However, it is for the delegates to say who shall be the nominee, and in this emergency, the President cannot refuse to serve the American people."

James A. Farley, chairman of the national committee—and a candidate—said: "I have no comment to make. The statement speaks for itself."

Another opponent of third terms, Senator Millard E. Tydings, of Maryland, said "I admire the President for the statesmanlike stand he has taken." He added: "I think he is sincere in not desiring to continue. There is no doubt that he would have gotten the full support of two-thirds of the delegates had he been a candidate."

E. B. Germany, campaign manager for Vice President Garner, told reporters: "The situation hasn't been changed. We have felt this was the President's sentiment all the time."

"The whole Garner campaign has been predicated upon the assumption that Roosevelt would not be a candidate. The Garner campaign has never been an anti-Roosevelt movement."

Germany said he was unable to guess how the President's declaration would affect the chances of Garner's nomination.

Interpretation Echoed. The "draft Roosevelt" interpretation put on the statement by Byrnes quickly was echoed by other third-term advocates. Senator Pepper said Roosevelt "is the people's candidate and they will have no other."

"If necessary, we will stay here until November nominating Roosevelt until the call of duty in a time of his country's travail cannot be denied—for he is an American," Pepper said.

Representative John McCormack, chairman of the Massachusetts delegation, said the American people "demand" a third term "because they recognize that Roosevelt has not only given the people the finest service during the last eight years but world conditions demand it."

Sees Draft. Louis J. Brahn, chairman of the Maine delegation, said "I believe the President will be drafted by the convention."

Senator Clark, of Missouri, a third-term foe, remarked that "The President cannot draft himself," and added: "I don't know whether this means his elimination, but what develops here tonight may well tell."

The senator did not explain whether he referred to the boisterous, tumultuous demand "We want Roosevelt now" that welled from the floor, despite all Barkley's efforts to still the din.

There was a laugh when one delegate found a vacant microphone and shouted: "Jim Farley wants Roosevelt," and a louder outburst when another sang out "Willkie wants Roosevelt." Another was "Tammany Hall wants Roosevelt."

Organ Chimes In. The center aisle was a mass of waving state standards. A dozen or so were grouped and dipped at the speakers' platform. A delegate with an orange Hawaiian lei about his neck carried a big framed picture of the President high above his head.

He passed the picture up to Barkley, who held it high, while the convention redoubled the bedlam, and the organ chimed up with "Happy Days Are Here Again."

Barkley had been entrusted with delivering Mr. Roosevelt's third-term views to the convention.

Rumors of the content of the chief executive's statement failed to lessen the determination of third-term advocates to select him for the 1940 standard bearer.

Officials on the platform already were discussing whether balloting on the nomination should not begin prior to the scheduled Thursday session.

Willkie Attacked. Under the circumstances the delegates and the milling, noisy gallery crowds were interested only in the conclusion of the Kentuckyian's address. The rest, a scathing attack upon the Republican candidate and platform and a heartily approving resume of the New Deal record, presented in the

Rivers' Name May Go Before Convention

Governor Willing To Be Nominated For Vice Presidency.

CHICAGO, July 16.—(AP)—While minimizing his chances of becoming a threat, Governor Rivers, of Georgia, indicated today his willingness to permit the Georgia delegation to the National Democratic Convention to propose him for vice president.

This attitude, as well as the delegation plan, is conditional upon the administration's failure to name its own choice for second place.

The Georgians said they were ready to take President Roosevelt's candidate if he names one.

Rivers said he considered the delegation's plan a "great compliment," but emphasized he had no false notions about becoming a serious contender.

Some delegates were shouting "We want Farley—We want Jim!" But he made no motion to respond. Miss Ruby Bell, of Paducah, Ky., Barkley's home town, came to the platform to lead the Kentucky delegation in singing "My Old Kentucky Home" as a special tribute to the senator. Barkley, ruddy of face, beamed approval from the rear of the platform.

George W. Casey, of Minnesota, was recognized to propose formal selection of the convention's permanent chairman. To escort him to the platform, Bankhead named Governors Burnet Maybank, of South Carolina; Herbert R. O'Connor, of Maryland; Culbert L. Olson, of California; and Keen Johnson, of Kentucky; and Howard Latourette, of Oregon.

When the ovation which welcomed him waned, the stocky, bull-necked Kentuckian swung at once into his prepared address. He spoke slowly, leaning forward, with his hands braced against the speakers' desk. The convention seemed to be listening intently, for the most part.

Kelly Busy. While Barkley spoke, two of the leading third-term advocates—Mayors Edward J. Kelly of Chicago and Frank Hague of Jersey City—busied themselves among delegates. Some thought they were arranging a demonstration for the President, but Hague denied he was doing so.

Hague added, however, he was ready to participate in any demonstration for the President.

Asked whether he thought the President would accept renomination, the Jersey mayor said: "What man wouldn't if this convention wants him?"

Two others who knew the secret which Barkley was shortly to let out, Senator Byrnes and Farley, were in close conference on the platform.

When Barkley mentioned the name of former President Herbert Hoover, the delegates boomed and then laughed when the speaker quoted Hoover as having told the Republican convention the people wanted an election, not an auction in November. All the auctions, Barkley said, had been held and during Hoover's administration. The wisecrack was an addition to his prepared text.

One standard after another joined the pulsing, jostling procession. A Texan threw his sombrero high into the air. North Carolina came out with a big banner saying "North Carolina, 26 votes for Roosevelt."

An argument developed about the burning of the flag.

rasment of putting to a vote a resolution praising himself, Farley hastened forward and took over the gavel to announce unanimous adoption of the "well-deserved" tribute.

James M. Tunnell, of Delaware, successfully proposed that the rules of the house of representatives govern the proceedings. It was adopted quickly.

Mrs. Thomas Buckley, of Massachusetts, proposed and Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey, seconded, a proposal that women delegates be given an equal voice with their male colleagues in framing the future party platforms.

Mrs. Norton said she appealed to the convention in the name of the women of the party "to prove your faith in us by unanimously approving this resolution."

On a voice vote, the ayes and the noes were sung out with such a vim as to make it all but impossible to determine which had won. However, Bankhead smacked his gavel and declared the resolution adopted, to the sympathetic laughter of the crowd.

Arrive Early.

Caught with the suspense of a historic moment, the delegates rushed into the hall at an early hour. The huge oval stadium was packed, aisles full, and standees behind each of the three tiers in the gallery.

To fill an interval of waiting for the scheduled radio time for Barkley's speech, the organ and band played state songs—including even the Maine state song for one of the only two states which went Republican in 1936.

The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You, the Texas delegation arose to cheer and the Marylanders unleashed a shout at "Maryland My Maryland."

Harry Richman, night club entertainer, sang "God Bless America." The delegates arose and joined in chanting what has achieved something of the status of a national anthem.

Barkley, dressed in white, perching under the warm glare of photographic lights, was sitting alone at the back of the platform, solemnly guarding the great secret which it had become his lot to divulge.

Crowd Goes Wild. Mrs. Lucretia Grady, of California, set the crowd wild with a resolution expressing the appreciation of the convention to Farley for his work for the party.

The organ played "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." Farley sat impassively on the platform, chewing gum.

Some delegates were shouting "We want Farley—We want Jim!" But he made no motion to respond. Miss Ruby Bell, of Paducah, Ky., Barkley's home town, came to the platform to lead the Kentucky delegation in singing "My Old Kentucky Home" as a special tribute to the senator. Two others who knew the secret which Barkley was shortly to let out, Senator Byrnes and Farley, were in close conference on the platform.

When Barkley mentioned the name of former President Herbert Hoover, the delegates boomed and then laughed when the speaker quoted Hoover as having told the Republican convention the people wanted an election, not an auction in November. All the auctions, Barkley said, had been held and during Hoover's administration. The wisecrack was an addition to his prepared text.

One standard after another joined the pulsing, jostling procession. A Texan threw his sombrero high into the air. North Carolina came out with a big banner saying "North Carolina, 26 votes for Roosevelt."

An argument developed about the burning of the flag.

South Threatens Fight on Floor For More Votes at Convention

CHICAGO, July 16.—(AP)—Southern delegates threatened today to carry to the Democratic convention floor their fight for greater representation in future party platforms.

The southerners registered strong opposition at a rules committee hearing to a national committee "compromise" proposal awarding each state going Democratic an additional delegate-at-large at the next convention held, beginning with that in 1944.

When northerners appeared ready to push through the bonus plan, Aubrey G. Weaver, of Virginia, moved successfully to defer a decision until tomorrow. Should the plan win rules committee approval, some southern delegates indicated they would carry the issue to the convention.

The delegate bonus issue arose from the 1936 convention's substitution of a majority vote rule for the rule which required a two-thirds vote of a convention to nominate a presidential candidate. Under this rule the "solid south" had a sort of veto power in choosing nominees. To offset the south's loss of this power the 1936 convention also proposed that a new delegate apportionment plan be worked out so that due recognition would be given states regularly voting the Democratic ticket.

A national committee subcommittee headed by Senator Theodore F. Green, of Rhode Island, brought in the one-delegate bonus plan. It won out over a southern proposal urging (1) three additional delegates at large for each state casting a majority for the Democratic presidential candidate, (2) one delegate to each congressional district, and (3) one additional delegate for those districts electing a Democratic congressman or casting at least 15,000 votes for the Democratic candidate.

When the Green proposal came before the rules committee today, Governor Burnet Maybank, of South Carolina, said it was "no bonus at all."

"When we agreed to give up the two-thirds rule," he asserted, "we expected more than one delegate. This plan, moreover, gives no consideration to districts. We might as well have any as one additional delegate."

The Bay State standard, however, was finally dragged into the procession and continued half way around the auditorium with the delegates still battling over it.

Senator Tydings, an opponent of most New Deal measures whom President Roosevelt unsuccessfully attempted to defeat in the 1938 primary campaign, clung tightly to one of the Maryland standards. But Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, usually the most dignified and polished of diplomats, bore the other in the parade. Governor Rivers carried the Georgia standard.

Barkley tried again and again to quiet the demonstration, but the crowd simply refused. For every gavel-rap it raised a louder shout.

Since each state delegation was marked by two standards, there were frequent instances where only one joined the demonstration. Both of Virginia's appeared from the platform to remain firmly on the ground, while at least one each of Missouri's and Montana's—home state of Senator Wheeler—were candidates themselves—also were held tightly.

"We want Roosevelt right now," a group near the speakers' platform chanted in rhythm. From the galleries came a timed clapping of hands.

Plauds With Crowd. "Will the delegations please return to their seats?" Barkley commanded after 19 minutes.

"No," the crowd shouted back, in a resounding roar. Melvyn Douglas, the moving picture actor, carried the California standard, dancing and leaping along the aisles, and adding his own voice to the din.

Barkley shouted into the microphone that "a lady has been seriously injured; will a doctor come to the platform?"

That stilled the tumult for a moment, but it was resumed, with the chant "We Want Roosevelt," continuing. Barkley again asked that the delegates "resume their seats" so that he could continue his address.

"I've got some more as good as that," he shouted, obviously referring to the reference to Roosevelt which had been applauded.

The noise finally died after 25 minutes, and Barkley was able to continue.

Douglasville Boy Wins Farm Speaking Contest COVINGTON, Ga., July 16.—(AP) Henry Vansant, of Douglasville, won first place in the Future Farmers of America speaking contest at Jackson Lake. He represented northwest Georgia.

Grady Wheeler, of Watkinsville, northeast Georgia, took second place.

In the singing the Dallas chapter took first place and the Hilton chapter was voted second. The chapter came third and Stilson chapter fourth. More than 400 high school students are attending the four-day conference.

when announcement was made a lady had been hurt and a doctor was needed.

First in the rush of state standards toward the speakers' platform was that of Georgia. From my seat in the press stand I could see Governor Rivers carrying the first standard, assisted by Sam Boykin, of Carrollton, and Steve Tate, of Tate. The bearers of the second one were lost in the tremendous crush of delegates.

Hats were thrown into the air. The standards were held high and swung in great waving circles. One of the Georgia pages was swung up on the shoulders of some of the Georgia delegates.

Traffic Jam. For a time there was a massed traffic jam. Hundreds of flashes went off with such rapidity there always were dozens flashing at once.

At last the standard bearers got started in their parade. Maryland, with Roosevelt's foe, Senator Tydings, sitting with the delegation, remained out. So did Virginia, where Carter Glass, another Roosevelt foe, rules his state's delegation.

Here and there a few delegates remained out, but the demonstration put an end to the reports there was no enthusiasm for Roosevelt.

Clothing Awry. With clothing pulled awry, with buttons pulled off shirts, with hats trampled and lost, the delegates paraded and shouted their desire for Roosevelt and a third term.

At last they were quieted. "Go on back," said Barkley, laughing. "I've got some more in here just as good as that."

At last they were settled and Barkley went on.

Career Girls Return to City For Quick Visit

Southern Sisters Doing
All Right in Bid for New York Fame.

Two of Atlanta's career girls made a quick trip home from New York city last weekend to visit their sister, who claimed fame only as a housewife, and praised the success of sister southerners in New York.

Miss Ann Rountree, 22-year-old New York model, and Miss Martha Jayne Rountree, New York writer, director and producer of radio plays, live in Garden City with their mother, Mrs. Mary Jane Rountree, and Calvin Rountree, their only brother, who is a commercial artist. All are former residents of Druid Hills. They are visiting Mrs. Bill Edwards, Avondale Estates, the former Miss Jean Rountree.

Ann and Martha Jayne have lived in New York for four years and Ann poses for Bradshaw Crandall and other noted illustrators. She does a bit of movie work in "Information Please," the short movie feature with Clifton Fadiman and his board of experts. Ann always takes the part of Mr. Fadiman's assistant who brings out the data used to stump the experts.

COMPARE CAREERS—Three sisters, writer Martha Jayne Rountree, of New York; Jean (Mrs. Bill) Edwards, of Avondale Estates, and Ann Rountree, New York model, compare their careers. The Misses Rountree visited Mrs. Edwards last weekend.

On New York state farms which have kept cost accounts, the cost of production per bushel of potatoes for the five-year period, 1934-38, was 45 cents, according to an economist of the New York State College of Agriculture.

President Rutherford B. Hayes was a posthumous child.

Defense Plans Speed Ahead, F. D. R. Asserts

Commission Reports
Show U. S. Rapidly
Marshaling War Resources.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(AP)—President Roosevelt gave to reporters today a report from the defense commission which he said exhibited extremely good progress and which showed that the industrial production division alone had let contracts totaling $1,661,891,494 since June 6.

Mr. Roosevelt got a separate report from each of the seven divisions of the commission at a conference today and then handed copies to reporters.

The chief executive told reporters that he considered the mass of information of equal or greater importance than the news coming from the Chicago convention even though most editors might not agree with him.

The reports covered all phases of the defense program to date, including such topics as protection of consumers, acquisition of strategic materials, provision of adequate equipment and transportation for troop movements in event of war, the keying of agriculture into the defense picture and training of skilled workers.

A report from the production division, headed by William S.

Knudsen, said the contracts cleared since June 6 were divided $1,390,575,404 for the navy and $271,316,089 for the army.

The deliveries under the contracts, coming from plants from Maine to California, will give the nation improved fighting equipment of all types.

The contracts, Knudsen informed the President, cover planes, tanks, battleships, ammunition, anti-tank guns, anti-aircraft searchlights, machineguns, tractors, trucks, clothing, machinery, airport construction, barracks and other essential items.

Furthermore, Knudsen reported "evidence has developed indicating progress towards solution, for the time being at least, of the bottlenecks in the machine tool industry."

Raw Materials. Edward R. Stettinius Jr., for the materials division, informed the chief executive that "substantial supplies" of strategic and critical raw materials were being acquired. Whereas the country always has depended on imports for rubber, he said, it is expected that by the end of the month a plan will have been worked out for supplying in any emergency, "most of our needs through the manufacture of synthetic rubber."

Stettinius advised the President of concentration on the problem of producing high-octane gasoline for airplanes to assure adequate supplies. Plans are under way, he said, for storing large quantities of this gasoline at strategic locations underground. This, the President commented, will be something new.

Skilled Workers. Sidney Hillman, chief of the labor supply division, said his organization, emphasizing plans for training skilled workers, already had between 30,000 and 40,000 enrollees receiving training designed to enable the defense commission to meet any demands for workers arising from the defense program.

The agricultural division, directed by Chester Davis, is working on the problem of locating plants for defense production so as to utilize surplus labor, particularly in agricultural areas, to avoid "uneconomic concentration of industry."

From Ralph Budd, of the transportation division, the President received word that specific recommendations have been drawn up for the acquisition of "very substantial numbers of special rolling stock for handling troops and their equipment."

In response to a question, the President said the government would buy this rolling stock. He spoke of the possibility of acquiring "cellar" cars with low bottoms on which tanks could be loaded, to permit them to negotiate tunnels along rail lines.

Ruling Curbs Use of Market Sale Monies

Arnall Questions
Whether Funds Can Finance Mart Projects.

Money which may be derived from the sale of state-owned property now used for a farmers' market in Atlanta may not be used for similar markets elsewhere in the state, Attorney General Ellis Arnall advised the Department of Agriculture yesterday.

In a letter to Columbus Roberts, commissioner of agriculture, Arnall said legislative authority for sale of such property expressly provided that the proceeds should be used "for the purchase of other property in the city of Atlanta, to be used for the establishment of a farmers' market."

The attorney general raised the question, however, whether any funds so acquired (from the sale of such property) could be used in any manner for another farm market since the state constitution expressly provides that any funds from sale of state property must be applied to the payment of the state's bonded debt.

Arnall Will Attend
Parley on Defense

Attorney General Ellis Arnall announced yesterday he would attend a conference in Washington August 5-6 of the Department of Justice and attorneys general of the United States, on protective and preventive measures on behalf of national defense.

Arnall said subjects which would be discussed included espionage, sedition, propaganda, civilian co-operation, treatment of aliens, and public education to obtain general co-operation between federal and state governments and citizens in connection with the federal defense program.

Included in the conference, he said, would be members of the National Association of Attorneys General, the Interstate Commission on Crime, the United States Department of Justice and the judiciary committees of the house and senate. Arnall will be accompanied by Secretary of State John B. Wilson.

San Francisco Shows Decrease in Population

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—(AP)—Preliminary census figures released today, showed a decrease in population for San Francisco of 4,841 to 629,553. The decline was .007 per cent from the 1930 figure of 634,394.

As a result San Francisco went down to twelfth place in the rank of the nation's largest cities, having been passed by Washington, D. C., which climbed 176,284 to 663,153.

$100,000 Suit Against Bishop Held Dismissed

Appeals Court Rejects Action Filed Against Church Dignitary.

The Georgia Court of Appeals ruled automatic dismissal yesterday of a $100,000 libel suit brought against Bishop Gerald P. O'Hara, of the Savannah-Atlanta diocese by Joseph F. Rutherford, an independent religious leader.

for $50,000 damages plus $50,000 exemplary damages, charging libel in a letter written by the bishop to the executive of an Atlanta radio station complaining of Rutherford's preaching.

Superior Judge John Rourke Jr. sustained three grounds of a 22-point demurrer filed by Bishop O'Hara's attorneys, and disallowed 19 grounds. At the same time, he directed Rutherford's counsel to amend the complaint on the three specified grounds within 30 days or face automatic dismissal of the case. Bishop O'Hara appealed, contending Judge Rourke had erred in not sustaining all grounds of the demurrer and dismissing Rutherford's action.

The Court of Appeals ruled today Rutherford had failed to comply with the lower court's time limit for amending his allegations, and hence the libel action already was automatically dismissed.

Rutherford was identified in the court records as "president and public spokesman" for the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society.

DRY LEADERS CONVENE—Members of the executive committee of the state prohibition party met yesterday at the Atlanta Y. M. C. A. to make plans for their convention to be held at the DeKalb county courthouse next Tuesday and to discuss the candidates they will support.

Clyde Walker Will Take Office as President of Club.

Clyde Walker, Decatur banker, will succeed James W. Battle as president of the Decatur Rotary Club in installation ceremonies at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Candler hotel.

Formerly a vice president in the organization, Walker will be followed in that office by Robert B. Holt, who has been serving during the year as secretary and treasurer. Hiram Kite will be inducted as second vice president.

Walter Rountree will assume the duties of secretary and Fred Scott is the new treasurer. Carlton Turner will be moved up to sergeant-at-arms. Succeeding him is Art Austin assistant sergeant-at-arms.

The new board of directors to be sworn in is composed of James Battle, Clyde Walker, Bob Holt, E. M. Emrey, Walter Rountree, Howell Green, Charles Hilkey, Philip Davidson and Max Weil.

Prohibitionists Meet To Map Their Program

All Gubernatorial Candidates Claim Braswell Deen's Votes.

By LUKE GREENE.

Probably the driest spot in Atlanta yesterday, after more than two weeks of rain, was the second floor of the Atlanta Y. M. C. A., where the executive committee of the State Prohibitionist party met to discuss candidates it will support in the forthcoming primary.

Acting as spokesman for the handful of "drys," Chairman L. P. Glass, of Lavonia, said the group only planned to do a little talking about their prospective candidates and actually would not announce their slate until they hold their state convention at the DeKalb county courthouse next Tuesday.

"Do you expect to support any of the present candidates for Governor?" he was asked.

"Oh, no," replied the serious-faced chairman. "All of the present candidates are on the opposite side of prohibition."

He declined to reveal the names of any candidates who would be up for consideration, but he indicated it would be someone who would be dry enough to kindle a fire in a downpour of rain.

Indorse Babson.

The "drys" did indorse Roger W. Babson for the national presidency and Edgar V. Moorman for the vice presidency, appointed R. E. L. Whitworth, of Dallas, as chairman of the nominating committee for state candidates, and named J. L. R. Boyd, of Atlanta, as chairman of the platform committee.

The prohibitionists keep up their political zeal despite the fact they rarely make much of a showing when the ballots are cast. A check with the secretary of state revealed that the prohibition party cast 1,358 votes in the last state election in November, 1938.

While the "drys" questioned the main political question elsewhere seemed to be what gubernatorial candidate would grab the votes left floating around by former Candidate Braswell Deen, who late Monday withdrew from the race.

A trek around to the headquarters of the various candidates brought out the fact that all four of them expected to rake in the Deen residue—provided there was anything to rake in.

There seemed to be some question as to just how much of a ripple Deen had created in the political pool during his three weeks of campaigning. He made one radio speech and took to the field for one week to make 21 speeches.

To Get Deen Votes?

One enthusiastic supporter of Abix confidently burst out with, "Oh, yes, we'll get the vote. Mr. Deen had hoped to get it" and then added an afterthought, "but are there very many of them to get?"

Hugh Howell came out with the prediction that another candidate of the Rivers brand would be in the race before entries close on July 25.

Pointing out his prophecy that Deen would withdraw from the race had come true, Howell said: "The Rivers crowd are desperate to perpetuate their rule in Georgia and the people need not be surprised to see another candidate for governor with the Rivers brand, muddy the water still further, and try to fool the people."

Speaking of the Deen withdrawal, Howell said, "This clearly shows that Rivers is trying to elect a candidate for Governor who will perpetuate the infamous regime that Georgia has suffered under the Rivers crowd for the past four years."

Since most of the state Democratic leaders were in Chicago for the party's national convention, it could not be learned whether Deen would be refunded his $350 entrance fee. The general opinion was that he could not demand return of this money, but that the state executive committee could refund it to him if it sees fit.

Headquarters of the four remaining candidates were fairly lively yesterday. The Columbus Roberts camp was busy making preparations for starting a woman's division of the campaign. Leaders of this phase of the campaign will be announced in the next two or three days.

In all of the offices the visitor is taken care of as soon as he walks into the door. Someone grips your hand in a vice-like grip and hurries you around to meet whoever happens to be there when you chance by. No one is left to cool his heels outside the door. No doubt it is good politics.

Another point in the candidates' favor is that they seem to realize the importance of picking beautiful girls for their campaign headquarters.

NEW FIRE TRUCK—The latest addition to Atlanta's fleet of firefighting machines is this sleek piece of apparatus. Proudly displaying it are Fireman R. H. Zachry, at the wheel, and W. F. Jenkins. It will be commissioned today.

City Acquires Powerful New Fire Pumper

Engine Will Be Stationed at Spring Street and Trinity Avenue.

The boys down at Number 5 engine house, at Spring street and Trinity avenue, will pause in their checker game today when that new 1,000 gallon pumper truck is added to the Atlanta Fire Department's fleet of machines.

Described by Assistant Chief W. P. Barker as "the latest thing in fire-fighting equipment," the new apparatus will carry a 190 horsepower engine, the most powerful motor in the local fleet, developed in a 12-cylinder engine.

Number 5 engine house is bossed by Atlanta Chiefs Pearce and Netherland. The pumper they have been using will be sent to Number 9, at Central avenue and Glenn street, to replace a 750-gallon machine. The latter machine will be used as a utility wagon, according to Chief Barker.

Streamlined and possessing every modern improvement in the fire-fighting world, the new engine was tested yesterday for pumping power and speed, and will be commissioned today after approval of the board of examiners.

The Atlanta department has 20 pumpers, one at each engine house. They are used to re-enforce the water drawn from hydrants, compressing it into a sharp stream that can be shot for hundreds of feet into burning buildings.

Writ Seeking To Close Ball Firm Is Denied

Case Charging Usurious Interest Heads for High Court.

An injunction petition seeking to close the Ball Investment Company as a public nuisance on the allegation it charged usurious interest rates was denied yesterday by Judge Paul S. Etheridge Sr. in Fulton superior court, but the case was immediately headed for the supreme court of Georgia.

Solicitor General John A. Boykin brought the injunction suit in the name of the state upon the request of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, and James A. Branch, Jack Savage and Henry L. Bowden acted as prosecutors for him.

They said the case would be appealed to the high court at once. In his ruling denying the restraining order sought, Judge Etheridge declared that "the allegations of fact are in the main supported by the evidence," but held that the state has another remedy at law (criminal prosecution for each violation of the legal interest law), and that "the acts complained of do not by common law or by statute constitute a public nuisance."

Branch yesterday afternoon asked Judge Etheridge to clarify his order in regard to the allegations of fact that he thought supported by the evidence, but this was resisted by John Dennis, counsel for the investment company. Judge Etheridge said that the whole question of whether a loan company charging illegal rates is a public nuisance or not would have to be reviewed by the high court anyway.

The state charged the Ball company exacted interest rates as high as 200 per cent from persons whose salaries it bought.

It was the first such case tried in Georgia, lawyers said.

$4,000 Bond Posted By Bob Hogg Sr.

R. H. "Bob" Hogg Sr., who was indicted last Friday by the federal grand jury on charges of income tax evasion, made bond of $4,000 yesterday before United States Commissioner David J. Meyerhardt.

Hogg was indicted at the same time as Walter Cuthbert, former bootlegger, numbers racketeer and associate of Eddie Guyol, slain numbers chief here.

Hogg was indicted on three counts charging evasion of $19,265.61 income tax during the years 1934, 1935, 1936 when the government charged that his total income was $136,975.50.

Man Who Hid Churchill During Boer War Dies

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, July 16.—(AP)—John George Howard, 87, who hid Winston Churchill in a mine pit for three days in 1899 after Britain's prime minister escaped from a prisoners' camp in the Boer War, died today.

He helped Churchill flee by train to Portuguese territory, concealed in bales of wool.

F. D. R. Orders Credit To Former Postmaster

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(AP)—President Roosevelt has approved a bill crediting $10,088.28 to the account of Clifford J. Williams, former Bainbridge, Ga., postmaster.

The amount represents a shortage in the accounts of a former assistant postmaster which accrued prior to Williams' appointment on August 15, 1926. Williams now is a clerk in the Griffin, Ga., post office.

British Planes Raid Deeply Into Libya

CAIRO, Egypt, July 16.—(AP)—British planes, penetrating almost 800 miles into Libya—an act described as the longest reconnaissance flight of the African campaign—bombed military camps at El Faifa, a Royal Air Force communiqué said today.

In other attacks the British claimed to have dropped many bombs on Tobruk, Libya, exploding two large naval oil tanks, hit at grounded aircraft at El Gazala, Libya, and destroyed artillery stores in Bardia.

The flight into Libya, carried out as far as Tobruk, only 60 miles from Italian headquarters at Benghazi, took place yesterday. One British plane was reported missing.

CONSTITUTION BUYS—Above sketch shows the triangular block at the corner of Alabama and Forsyth streets, purchased yesterday by The Constitution Publishing Company for future development and expansion. On the property is a two-story brick building erected many years ago. A strip of land about 30 feet wide, just in the rear and extending the distance of the building, also was purchased, the publishing company thus acquiring more than 18,227 square feet of space. Robert R. Otis Company, realtors, handled both sales. (Story on Page 1.)

British Flying Passengers on War-Zone Line

Lisbon Bookings Take Place in Building Housing Nazi Offices.

(Editor's Note: Taylor Henry, formerly in the Associated Press bureau in Paris, has reached London after a flight by British commercial plane from Portugal. Henry went with the French army into the battle of France and flew over the lines in a French bomber. Now he tells of a second bird's-eye view of a war zone.)

By TAYLOR HENRY.

LONDON, July 16.—(AP)—My daylight flight over German-patrolled waters off the western coast of France from Lisbon to London—the last fast link between the British Isles and the continent—was so uneventful that the passengers slept most of the nine hours of the trip.

The route is covered daily by British flying boats, despite the constant danger of attack.

Spaces on the planes, which carry no armament and are listed as non-combatant ships, are at a premium and, with long waiting lists for the eight available planes, it takes a priority order from the British government to get a seat in less than two or three weeks.

The most amazing thing about this last air link between England and the continent is the normal way service runs.

Passengers are booked at Lisbon in the same building where the German-Hamburg-America Line has offices. There is nothing hush-hush about it.

Since the plane never takes exactly the same course twice there is no danger of telling in general terms how the service works.

It is only after the English coast is sighted that nervous tension is felt. Then the pilot constantly changes altitude, hunting friendly banks in which to hide.

Members of the crew said that if they sighted Axis planes they would run for it or would land on the water and see what happened. "We have orders not to fight," one crewman said.

Farmer, 71, Jailed In Death of Woman

COCHRAN, Ga., July 16.—(AP) Sheriff J. D. Padgett said today he was holding a 71-year-old farmer on a charge of fatally whipping a young Bleckley county woman with a fruit crate slat.

The Bleckley county sheriff identified the man as John Smith and said the woman, Bessie Price, had shared his home in a lonely region several miles north of Cochran.

He said he had learned of the crime when the woman was buried on July 4.

State Defense Chapter Plans Drafted Here

Three Are Nominated for Commander of Atlanta Division.

Preliminary plans for organization of an Atlanta chapter of the Georgia State Defense Corps got under way yesterday with nomination of Frank R. Fling, Leo S. Gilbert, and Dr. Preston Sumner for Atlanta division commander.

The nominations were made at a meeting of city and county leaders in the mayor's office. One of the trio will shortly be named head of the local unit by a permanent committee of 20 persons to be headed by Mayor Hartsfield. Those present included Faber A. Bollinger, president of the Kiwanis Club; H. H. Trotter, vice president and business manager of The Constitution; John A. Brice, of the Atlanta Journal; Dr. Richard M. Eubanks, of the Old Guard; H. D. Gedney, second district commander of the American Legion; C. M. Seward, commander of Adamsville Post No. 73 Legion; H. A. Milliken, commander of Gate City Post No. 72 Legion; H. T. Upshaw, commander, Waldo M. Slaton Post No. 140, Legion; Robert Hale, president, Atlanta Lions Club; D. Berry, commander first district, Legion; J. O. Sallee, commander Fulton County Post No. 134, Legion; J. Everett Thrift, commander fifth area, Legion; P. C. Vaillancourt, commander, Luck-Hogan Post No. 49, Legion, Union City; Sheriff J. C. Aldridge, Assistant City Chief of Police A. J. Holcomb, Walter LeCraw and Finney Arnold.

Fling is commander of Atlanta Post No. 1, American Legion, and clerk of the Fulton county commission. Dr. Sumner is senior vice commander of the Order of the Purple Heart for Georgia. Gilbert is 46 years old and a past commander of Buckhead Post No. 140, American Legion.

Meanwhile, Lieutenant General Stanley D. Embick, commanding general of the fourth corps area, yesterday suggested that all individuals and organizations contemplating local defense measures communicate with Ryburn G. Clay, state commander of the defense corps.

United States Against Closing Of Burma Road

U. S. Lets Britain, Japan Know It Sides With China.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(AP)—The United States, siding with China, let Japan and Britain know today that it opposed the threatened closing of the Burma road, over which most of the arms now move to the hard-pressed Chinese forces for their war with Japan.

A formal statement from the State Department said "this government has a legitimate interest in the keeping open of arteries of commerce in every part of the world and considers that action such as this, if taken, and such as was taken recently in relation to the Indo-China railway, would constitute unwarranted interpositions of obstacles to world trade."

This came soon after the resignation of the Japanese cabinet of Premier Admiral Matsumasa Yonai and was interpreted in some quarters as a warning to the new Tokyo government that the United States remains firm in its policy toward the Far East.

Under demands from Japan, Britain was said to have offered to close the Burma route for three months if Japan would seek peace with China during that period.

Today's statement followed a strong protest to Britain from the Chinese government.

In another field of foreign affairs, the United States was understood to be sounding out other American governments on suggestions that a mandate or protectorate be established over European possessions in the western hemisphere as a protection against foreign conquests or influences.

Foreign Minister Cristobal Saenz, of Chile, disclosed that he had received a note on the subject from Claude Bowers, the United States ambassador.

German Jews Dismayed by U. S. Rejections

Believe New Line of Questioning Based on '5th Column' Fears.

BERLIN, July 16.—(AP)—Jewish people in Germany look with increasing dismay at a combination of war circumstances and American State Department regulations affecting their departure from the Reich.

The two factors, it was said today, are cutting down the number of Jewish emigrants to the United States.

Several Jews said they had been on the point of receiving visas, had sold their furniture and other properties and even bought railway and steamship tickets, when they were abruptly rejected.

They asserted that the new line of questioning was evidently based on fears in America of "Fifth Column" operations.

Reliable sources said there was no new line of questioning involved, but that recent instructions from the State Department in Washington advised "special care" to pass only applicants capable of becoming true Americans.

The Record Speaks

In Chicago, where the Democratic national convention is in full swing, there has been much vocal effort. Oratory is part and parcel of such a gathering and it is right it should be so.

There are certain routine things on a political convention program which must continue. There are the speeches of welcome. There are the speeches of nomination. There is the keynote speech.

Speaker Bankhead delivered the keynote speech Monday night and, as this is written, that speech is being discussed, studied and analyzed all over the nation. It was a fine speech, fully worthy of its giver and of those who heard.

Yet, through all the speech making, one fact stands out with remarkable prominence at this convention which, in some respects, is so unlike any that have gone before. That fact is that the real keynote for the coming Democratic campaign, the real platform on which the party nominees will stand, is the record of accomplishment made by the Democratic administration since it took over the reins of government in that dark hour of 1933.

The apparent certainty that Roosevelt will be nominated, by overwhelming vote, for a third term and thus shatter all American presidential precedent, makes this one of the strangest national conventions ever held by a political party in America.

The dark shadow of the war in Europe and the knowledge that the future of this nation depends largely upon the ability of Britain to resist a looming Nazi attack in full force, has its direct effect upon the Chicago gathering. Never before in the history of America was her domestic policy so inexorably dependent upon the doings of men and women of other nations, thousands of miles away.

Yet, through it all, whoever the Democratic standard-bearer may be, the sharply outstanding fact is that the Democratic record for the past seven years is the strongest of all possible arguments for return of a Democratic administration for another four. There can be no keynote, no platform, so effective as a vote winner as the record itself.

Even the Republicans in their own convention at Philadelphia found no specific objection to which to point in all the long list of Democratic achievements for social betterment. The G. O. P. leaders condemned President Roosevelt in general terms, but at the same time indirectly endorsed his leadership by failing to promise repeal of a single social law enacted during his term at the White House. As a matter of fact they would hardly dare do so, for they know well that the average people, the voters, appreciate fully the benefits that have come to them because of the administration's forward-looking program of social reform. The voters remember the economic abyss that yawned before the nation during the Hoover administration and they remember, too, that administration's do-nothing policies.

They found salvation then, when the Democrats came to office and they do not forget in the seven years that have followed since.

The Republicans have attempted to criticize the foreign policies of the Roosevelt administration. Here again they find themselves tripped by their own illogic. Roosevelt was the first to see the impending world tragedy that hung over Europe and he was the first to strive to avert the gathering clouds of war. Years ago he asked for vastly enlarged appropriations for American defense, only to be accused by these same Republicans of seeking war as a political advantage to himself. Surely the most cruel and most unwarranted charge imaginable.

It will be most embarrassing for Republican speakers in the coming campaign. For they will not dare to criticize specific items in the Democratic record, for fear of the boomerang against themselves as the voters remember.

The seven-year record of a Democratic administration is, emphatically, the best possible platform and keynote, to assure the return for another four years of a Democratic president and vice president.

If he buys the Yanks, Jim Farley may get in there and pitch, as he used to be a ball-player—which is what they are saying of some of the Yanks.

Nazi "Purge" in France

Cables from France announce that a number of French newspapermen have been ordered by the German invaders to leave the French provisional capital as "undesirables." The Nazis define the action as a "purge."

Right! According to the Nazi viewpoint. Why permit a newspaper or newspapermen to write about what they see and what they know? That is contrary to "public policy." The objectionable scribes were said to favor the old alliance between France and England.

The press of the United States is not wholly "free." Its writers, except for a group of nationally known columnists, usually conform to the views of the publishers who own the newspapers and employ them. Why not? Their views are presumed to reflect his views.

But the press of the United States is free from governmental censorship. No publisher, no editor, no matter how strongly he may be allied with the "New Deal," for instance, hesitates to criticize the government whenever he may disagree with its policies. Not while the nation is at peace, at least.

There is no iron hand descending upon an American newspaper, wrecking its presses, sending its editors to concentration camps.

As long as the people of this country are told the truth about international affairs and left to draw their own conclusions and form their own opinions this nation will truly be "free."

Our people may make mistakes—on a large scale. But it will not be because they were kept in darkness about the world outside their own little radius.

In the Arkansas back country, a candidate shows up at rallies with his violin and fiddles as if he were already in the legislature.

Rough Crossing

The news dispatch didn't give his name nor disclose his nationality. He was described, briefly, as a "bespectacled little man."

This tiny human unit was, evidently, caught in Europe's war mess and determined to escape. His tenacity bears hints of British stubbornness.

He wanted to cross the English channel, from France to England, but there are, of course, no normal modes of travel operating over that narrow strip of water, now. But our "bespectacled little" hero found a nine-foot rowboat and embarked, from "somewhere" on the French coast. It took him four days to traverse what a regular steamer would cross in three hours. He used his coat for a sail, part of the time.

Then, when near the English coast, his boat drifted under a vicious air battle between British Hurricanes and German Messerschmitts. Bullets spattered the water all around his frail craft. Some went through the hull and, when first sighted from the shore, he was desperately bailing with his hat.

He was rescued and brought ashore. The story ends there. It is to be hoped, for the sake of all unsung heroes, he turned out to be a loyal Englishman, determined to win back to home, or to die in the attempt. It would spoil the yarn if, after all, he proved to be a Fifth Columnist in disguise.

Can't you picture him? A little man, short-sighted and, in all his lifetime, probably utterly inconsequential. But, for a few days and a few minutes of fearful climax, a hero because of his dogged determination.

He'll have a story to tell, that little man, when war experiences are recounted around the pub bar of a winter's night. But he'd better carry his proof with him. For, otherwise, his hearers will be apt to stare scornfully upon him and deride him for a most fanciful liar.

Editorial of the Day

TOWARDS NATIONAL UNITY

(From The Boston Evening Transcript.)

The first milestone was passed on the floor of the Republican convention last week. A great movement has begun. May it culminate next January with the people of all parties united in their resolve under a great leader to revitalize America.

With this milestone passed, we can have confidence that we are on our way. The journey has begun. There lies ahead of us a long, hard road to freedom. Along that road lies the next objective of national unity. To that end we must now bend our efforts.

The new Republican party enters a hard and tough campaign. It has little to promise the people immediately except hard work and high taxes. Its opponents are well entrenched. It will be tempting to make false promises and call names. Let the Republican party begin now to insist upon a campaign worthy of the democratic ideal. Let it be conducted cleanly and honestly. Let it be constructive and not acrimonious.

Let both parties so conduct themselves that, when the final vote is counted next November, the victor and the vanquished can unite and all the people of this nation can join in the common ideal, can acquire a singleness of purpose, and can toil together in a joint effort to develop a new and strong America.

National unity is paramount if we are to preserve America from decadence within and attack from without.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

POOR HARRY CHICAGO, July 16.—The lot of Harry Hopkins is not a happy one. The President's favorite croney, star White House boarder and Secretary of Commerce, Hopkins comes nearest of any one in Chicago to being the leader of the third-term movement. And it is difficult to tell whether the third-termers or anti-third-termers are most displeased with the way Hopkins is handling the situation.

In its first days the convention went horribly sour. Hopkins, being in charge as much as any one was in charge, was immediately blamed. During the past 24 hours, therefore, an extraordinary number of political leaders, New Dealers not belonging to the Hopkins group, and independent Roosevelt admirers conducted a kind of mass attack on the President, warning him by telegram and telephone that he must "save the convention."

This pressure resulted in the statement transmitted to the convention by the President through Senator Alben W. Barkley. The statement, the issuance of which the President had already been considering before the mass attack began, changed the convention atmosphere. And this change in atmosphere, plus the intensive efforts of Messrs. Ed Kelly, Frank Hague, Joseph E. Guffey and other stragglers, who can command the voices as well as the votes of their henchmen, produced the demonstration at the evening meeting.

The change in the convention atmosphere, however, does not alter the situation of the unhappy Hopkins. On the whole, oddly enough, the anti-third termers like Postmaster General James A. Farley are more understanding of his plight than the men who should be Hopkins' supporters. They know that Hopkins cannot act decisively and effectively, even supposing he had the political training to do so, as long as the President continues to play "Now you see me, now you don't."

The President's little game of mystification makes it impossible for Hopkins to offer definite commitments or give definite orders.

The third-termers, on the other hand, are really enraged. Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, such senators as Frank Maloney of Connecticut, and many of the non-political Roosevelt camp followers now in Chicago are privately confessing despair at the way things are being handled. A movement was discussed among them to ask Hopkins to pass on the command to a wiser and more practiced man, preferably Senator James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, and although this group movement came to nothing, the powerful Bronx boss and old Roosevelt friend, Ed Flynn, is known to have telephoned the President in Washington to tell him in the most forcible terms that Hopkins was making a botch of the whole business.

Flynn was typical of the mass attackers.

BIG TIMER The falling off of Hopkins is a real lesson in the ups and downs which are humanity's sad fate. When he came to Chicago he was the man of the hour. He was heralded as the head of a third-term strategy board, and he seemed prepared to act a great part.

He arranged one elaborate hideaway at the Blackstone. In addition to the Blackstone hideaway, he took for himself a hideaway from the hideaway at the Ambassador East, complete with private wires, secret telephone numbers, and all the apparatus of big-time political management.

Unluckily the prerequisites of successful big-time political management are authority and experience. Though well-meaning, Hopkins was lacking in both of these. His troubles began at once, when he discovered that not he but James Farley was the biggest figure in Chicago. He had neglected to get in touch with Farley on arrival, then he called him and asked him to drop over to one of the hideaways. Finally he went to see Farley. It was a concession, but it was not rewarded.

ENTER JIM The position taken by Farley, his determination to have his name presented to the delegates, his frank dislike of the third term, his open scorn for the somewhat amateurish Hopkins efforts and his intention to retire from the national chairmanship at an early date, was the real source of the sourness which slowly seeped through the convention.

Hopkins' first effort to solve the problem was to get the convention shortened to three days. They thought that if the nomination could be got over promptly, the sourness would disappear. For the convention, which the Chicagoans putting up the money for the convention, had promised the delegates would be in town for five days, refused to go along on any plan to make the convention shorter. Then various other expedients were proposed, such as omitting the nominating speech for the President, and so forth, all intended to make the nomination seem to come by acclamation.

These, too, came to nothing. After a day or so, Hopkins and his entourage were ready to read Farley out of the party. A complete change of decoration was needed at the national committee, so they told all and sundry. Meanwhile, however, other third-term leaders were beginning to wonder about Hopkins' own usefulness. The complaints culminated in Ed Flynn's call to the President.

GETTING DOWN TO CASES Flynn's desire was to bring Farley more into line. It was impossible to persuade the President's one-time chief backer to withhold his name from nomination, or to stay on permanently as national chairman. Some measure of Farley's bitterness toward the administration is to be found in his choice of Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, as his nominating speech. But at Hyde Park, in his talk with the President, Farley had gone so far as to commit himself to staying on at the national committee for a few weeks after the convention's end to get things straightened out and ready for the campaign. In his annoyance with Hopkins and the others at Chicago he began to change his mind about his commitment. Flynn and a number of other Democratic leaders of the more practical type but heavy pressure on Farley, and he then agreed to abide by his commitment after all.

UNREAL TRIUMPH This was a pretty unreal triumph. But the mass attackers now hope that before many hours have passed they will induce the President to abandon his little game of "Now you see me, now you don't." They hope to induce him, in fact, to tell the convention boldly and freely that he sees a great world crisis in progress, and that if he is given a free hand, is not asked to campaign, and is allowed a truthful platform, he will serve for the duration of the crisis. That might be the miracle to put life in this Chicago gathering.

Unfortunate Condition.

It seems, as a result of some of the overwrought fear of enemy agents or "Fifth Columnists" coming into this country, the United States has brought about a condition, this summer, that is rather unjust to our good neighbor, Canada.

You recall it was announced from Washington, not so long ago, that restrictions on entry into this country would be tightened, including entry from Canada. The result has been that thousands of American vacationists who had planned a trip, this summer, into Canada, have changed their plans. They were afraid of trouble with the immigration authorities at the border.

A letter from a friend, a prominent Quebec industrialist, arrived this week, points out that the speeding up of Canadian war activities has necessitated ever increasing purchases of materials in the United States. To buy our goods, it is necessary for Canada to acquire enormous amounts of American dollars and one way to get those United States dollars is for American tourists to spend their money on the northern side of the border. Thus any appreciable slackening in tourist trade is a severe blow to Canada's war program.

"As you know," writes this friend, "with the premium of 7% on the American dollar the tourist's money will go further than it has in the past, and our prices here have not gone up appreciably since the war started."

Thus, you see, by going to Canada for their vacations, Americans can contribute to their Canadian neighbors' war effort.

Difficulties Smoothed Away.

Latest advices from the border indicate that the added immigration difficulties did not exist for long and have now been smoothed away. There never was any trouble in getting into Canada, the annoyance was caused by the United States authorities when the traveler wanted to come back home again.

Interesting Time for Visit.

Personally, I'd think a vacation in Canada this year would have added interest because of the war efforts being put forth in that country. There must be evidence of this activity in every Canadian city and town and it might be valuable to the average United States citizen to get a rough idea of what it means when a great and large country of the western hemisphere takes active part in a war raging on the other side of the Atlantic. That is, those citizens too young to remember when this country was in World War First.

And Canada is, at all times, one of the most beautiful and fascinating of places to visit. Go up to Niagara Falls, cross to the Canadian side and then travel through Ontario. Visit London, Toronto, Brockville, Kingston, Guelph, Belleville, Ottawa and the other cities. Take the gorgeous boat trip on the St. Lawrence, among the Thousand Islands Go to Montreal, where half the people speak English and half Canadian-French. Be sure to see Quebec, the old city around the harbor and the new city upon the heights. Walk along the Heights of Abraham, where Wolfe died even as he defeated Montcalm and see the guns, the old guns, that still point across the straits toward the United States shore.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Saturday, July 17, 1915:

"London, July 16.—The Austro-German armies, which now appear to be working in perfect concert, are giving the Russians little rest or time to reorganize after their retreat from Galicia."

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Chicago Leader CHICAGO, July 16.—Of the many distinguished Chicagoans who served today as hosts to the party of humanity in a scene of unimaginable political and civic squallor, it seems conservative to state that none contributed a more robust individual smell to the general stench than Mr. Mike Carrozzo, a noted leader of the American Federation of Labor and a man of great power in the Chicago city hall.

Mr. Carrozzo is an old-time habitué of that historic arc of vice which existed for many years in the South Side district around 22nd street and which in its day was known as the levee or the line. His personal history, entered in the documentary files of the United States government, records that in the period between 1910 and 1917 he lived in the 2100 block on Michigan avenue and later at an address on 22nd street, both in the very midst of a patch given over exclusively to the business of prostitution. He was there a body-guard of the late Jim Colisimo, the immigrant who introduced chain-store methods to the brothel industry in the United States, and in later years he became an intimate of Al Capone and latter-day gorillas whose influence on the morals and government of the second city is still predominant in all phases of its political and administrative affairs.

Prominent Statesman

Mr. Carrozzo is now a prominent local statesman, a prominent leader in the American Federation of Labor, and the hearty approval of William Green, and a country gentleman with his own herd of bloody dairy stock and swine and a stable of steeds which race under his colors in Saratoga and Miami when the criminal scum are there. He is a gunman, and was once indicted for a murder of a comrade in the labor racket. But beat the rap as, indeed, he beat the gun-rap, wherein it was shown that he was an honorary or nominal member of the fish and game department, on his way to inspect a theoretical mess of fish at hypothetical risk of his life.

Mayor Edward Kelly has this in common with his fellow humanitarian—that he once was subjected to the harassment of an indictment for a murder of a comrade in the labor racket. But beat the rap as, indeed, he beat the gun-rap, wherein it was shown that he was an honorary or nominal member of the fish and game department, on his way to inspect a theoretical mess of fish at hypothetical risk of his life.

Mayor Edward Kelly has this in common with his fellow humanitarian—that he once was subjected to the harassment of an indictment for a murder of a comrade in the labor racket. But beat the rap as, indeed, he beat the gun-rap, wherein it was shown that he was an honorary or nominal member of the fish and game department, on his way to inspect a theoretical mess of fish at hypothetical risk of his life.

Again Indicted Mr. Carrozzo is present in under indictment again, this time in connection with the Thurman model's attempt to break up collusion between crooked contractors, crooked politicians in the city hall and labor racketeers in the paving industry in Chicago. Moreover, his influence, as indicated by his relatively recent acquisition of his country estate, his farm and stables, has weakened the interest of the internal revenue department, the more so because his economic rise coincided roughly with a great and sudden increase in the cost of paving at the expense of the American people through the WPA. It is not surprising that Mr. Carrozzo's love of humanity, as represented by the party of humanity, flamed into a hot passion during this period and now emits the fire and lava of devotion. The people of the United States certainly have been humane to him.

Rather oddly, Mr. Carrozzo did not become a citizen until July 6, 1937, after 31 years in the country, most of them spent in rackets. Before that, although he was undoubtedly ruler over thousands of American toilers who were and still are compelled to pay him $2 a month, plus $10 a year, for the right to work, whether or not there is work available for them, his citizenship proceedings were lagged. Twice before he sought himself of citizenship, but withdrew his applications on the strength of official warnings that if he pursued them, he would be blackballed as improper material. But finally, with the indorsement of one contractor and one city paving superintendent who had the breadth of mind and depth of soul to appreciate his innate fitness, Citizen Carrozzo joined his subjects in the enjoyment of a full partnership in the glorious republic of the western world.

Citizen Carrozzo's devotion to the Democratic party, which his colleague in good government, Mayor Kelly, so touchingly has called the party of humanity, is not to be measured by his formal contributions to the organization, as such. He is a man of, many good but quiet works in the organization under the mayor's leadership, but his devotion to the party of humanity overcame his modesty in the year of the big wind, 1938, when he was reported to the United States congress as one of those humanitarians who contributed $250 for a Democratic campaign book. Not much given to reading, Mr. Carrozzo, nevertheless, thought he positively ought to have a book.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

GEORGIA'S DELEGATES CONVENTION HALL, CHICAGO, Ill., July 16.—Your correspondent has walked a couple of inches off his legs trying to find some news from the Georgia delegation to send back to the home folks. Almost hopefully your reporter has asked if someone were not ill or slightly injured. But aside from a few headaches and a great desire for sleep on the part of a few, there is no news.

The Georgians faithfully have been attending the sessions of the convention. For recreation they have been going to picture shows and to restaurants of note. They come back wishing they could eat some turnip greens and some corn bread worthy the name.

The convention itself retains its Georgia complexion. Or rather its Georgia Tech complexion. By the time the convention has been going an hour your correspondent is ready to put on a football suit and go out and die for Bill Alexander. The refrain of "Rambling Wreck," as ordered by Carter Barron, Frank Freeman Jr. and L. W. (Chip) Robert, three Tech men who are in charge of the musical program, is heard so often I keep looking up to see the team come on the field.

"Dixie" also slips into the program very frequently. In fact, I overheard a New York delegate complaining, "Who is in charge of that music?" he was asking, "Why can't they play the 'Sidewalks of New York' just once?"

The convention is not as exciting as conventions usually are, but it is early. And, after all, this is not a convention so much as it is a ratification meeting. The convention really was held in the many states which pledged their votes to Roosevelt.

MA PERKINS Ma Perkins intimates this convention really has been a better woman's convention than a man's. The ladies have been most active in their meetings and have prepared a resolution asking for equal representation on committees. At their meeting today, a breakfast, Ma Perkins, secretary of labor, spoke and said, "We are about to do a historic thing, nominate a President for a third term." This was important only in that Mrs. Perkins is a member of the cabinet and cabinet members have been unusually silent of late.

The first speech this morning was by Mrs. Thomas F. McAlister, director of the women's division of the national committee. It was a stirring speech and a challenging one, in that it announced thousands of trained workers were ready to take the field for the New Deal as soon as the campaign actually begins.

Mrs. Mary T. Norton, chairman of the women's committee on labor, said this morning, in discussing her resolution, "I trust this convention will see eye to eye with the President on this, as he favors it."

There is talk the plan now is to let all nominations be made and then, when the roll call begins, to start the ball rolling for Roosevelt. The original plan, which has not been entirely dismissed, was to have Alabama's Lister Hill cast 24 votes for Roosevelt as the roll started and thus before any nomination speeches have been made.

NOT MUCH ANGER There are hints here and there some few of the delegations are showing signs of disaffection. If so, it can't yet be located. Here and there are a few early delegates weary of waiting. The Farley supporters, the more ardent of them, are trying to create enough minority pressure to force the President out.

Most of the political talk concerns the vice presidency. The Texas delegation now is beginning to talk Sam Rayburn. The trading and the battling for the vice presidency occupies most of the political minds.

Telephone calls to and from Washington keep the lines busy.

A FEW ITEMS Just after having sent the preceding page on its way a bit of local news came by. From the Idaho delegation came its chairman, Asher B. Wilson, of Twin Falls, to introduce himself to Chairman Clark Howell. Mr. Asher is the father of Mrs. Sam Sibley Jr., and he wanted to meet some of the residents of his daughter's adopted state.

As some of the convention items which remain in the mind, I would name first the spectacle of Monday night, when more than 20,000 persons stood and sang "God Bless America." It was a dramatic few minutes. Looking around at the faces in the great tiers of seats, massed up into the top of the gigantic stadium, and hearing them sing, sent the tremors down one's back.

Delegate Jack Williams, the distinguished editor from Waycross, Ga., has been the most interviewed of the delegates insofar as the feminine reporters are concerned. They pick him out every time.

Important to remember, in reading or thinking about this convention, that nowhere else in the world may such a convention be held at this time. With all its faults, with all its traditions and deals, it remains a great convention. This campaign ought to do great things for the country.

If He Tries to Kill, He Is No Less Guilty Because the Gun Happens Not To Be Loaded

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

When America was young and wild and rough on the edges, the preacher enjoyed an occasional drink of rye or corn and nobody thought less of him because of it.

Smoking seems almost universal now, yet there are people who think it sinful; and there are laymen as well as clergymen who continue to smoke, while believing it morally wrong, and thus burden themselves with remorse and rob themselves of the peace of God.

You will remember the parable of the two sons who were asked to do an errand for their father. One said he would go, but went not; the other at first refused but later relented and went. And Jesus asked which of the two really did the will of his father.

The obvious lesson is that righteousness consists in doing right—not in lip service or good intentions.

But right is not always obvious. And while opinion cannot make a wrong act right, it can make a harmless act wrong.

Suppose a father leaves his two sons in charge of the farm while he does an errand in town, and the two boys, having been given no specific instructions, decide to go fishing.

The father would not have disapproved if he had known about it, and one son realizes this; but the other believes he is acting contrary to his father's wishes.

This second son, while doing no wrong, nevertheless sins against his father, for he thinks he is violating his father's will and in spirit he is disobedient. He is a rebel, for as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he.

So the one who smokes, believing it wrong, is as sinful as though he violated an express command, for he deliberately chooses to do wrong. It is the spirit and not the act that condemns him.

And he cannot be at peace with God while that attitude continues, for he is not at peace with himself.

Good Morning—By Louie D. Newton

Hugh Altman handed me a piece of paper Sunday morning, on which I read:

"Every minute—yes, every second, somewhere in the world, a bombshell explodes without noise. They burst with no audible sound whatever. These are incessant bombs of 'realization' exploding in human craniums; when men, having staunchly believed one thing, find out suddenly and unmistakably that the opposite has been true all the time."

"It happens a million times every day; as, for example, when one man discovers no basis for distrust in his wife, while another finds a real basis for distrust of an employee or so-called 'friend.'"

"Often a plausible news item is vividly refuted, and faith, hope, trust, confidence and belief spring up in what before seemed only the twilight zone of doubt."

There is something to give us a renewed feeling of poise and satisfaction. I do not know the author of the above lines. The author's name was not given on the piece of paper Mr. Altman handed me, and I did not have an opportunity to ask him if he knew the name of the author. Anyway, someone has done a good job in stating the above case. I think it is the truth.

One has but to reflect for a moment upon the experiences that have come to each of us to realize the truth of the statement. True, these noiseless bombshells do sometimes disclose unhappy facts, but I firmly believe that the majority of the disclosures and revelations of life are reassuring.

With Browning, I believe that "the best is yet to be." A friend said to me the other day: "You are a hopeless optimist." That is a depressing way to state it, it seems to me. I am an optimist, all right, but it is not a hopeless situation. Rather, it is upon hope that I build my philosophy—hope that sees beyond the "mist"—hope that is grounded in realization of indisputable facts in human experience—hope in the goodness and mercy of God.

I like the way H. F. Lyte puts it in that cherished old hymn, "Abide With Me."

Change and decay in all around I see,
O Thou Who changest not, abide with me.

Yes, these noiseless bombshells are exploding a million times every day, revealing His eternal will as always best for those who cast themselves without reservation upon His promises to save us and keep us and bring us at last unto Himself in the Home of Light and Love.

Wisdom Plans To Enter Race For Treasurer

Former State Auditor Will Oppose Hamilton and Avery.

Tom Wisdom, former state auditor, announced yesterday he planned to enter the race for state treasurer against incumbent George Hamilton and Pat Avery, attorney, both of whom have qualified for the post.

Wisdom said he would qualify as soon as Mrs. Kathleen Hogan, assistant secretary of the state Democratic executive committee, returns from the Democratic national convention in Chicago.

A native of Chipley, Wisdom served as state auditor from July, 1929, to February, 1938. Previously he had served as county school superintendent of Harris county and as auditor for the state school department. He is now connected with the state purchasing department.

Wisdom said he would have a statement concerning his candidacy when he qualifies.

Meanwhile, 21-year-old Woodrow Tucker, of Hapeville, announced he would run for clerk of the Georgia house of representatives. John Greer Jr. and Joe Boone, of Toombsboro, also are seeking the post.

A graduate of the Cornelia High school, Tucker said he had an ambition to hold a state office. He plans to enter Oglethorpe University in September and later study law. Before coming to Atlanta he served as publicity manager for the Buford baseball club.

Willkie's Business Experience Found Valuable Political Asset

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP.

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion. PRINCETON, N. J., July 16.—To shed light on the meteoric rise of Wendell Willkie in national popularity, the American Institute has just completed a survey in which voters in all sections of the country and in all income levels were asked whether they thought Willkie would make a good President. Both those who thought he would and those who thought he would not were asked why they felt so.

Their reasons are particularly revealing because they show that the feeling against big business which was current five or six years ago has been substantially altered. In fact, over half of those voters who think Willkie would make a good President say it is because "he has been a successful businessman and a good executive."

The Gallup Poll

Moreover, even among those voters who oppose him, the chief reason cited is "lack of experience in politics" rather than his connections with big business and Wall Street.

Willkie's two chief points of popular appeal, as analyzed in the thousands of comments gathered by the survey, are his business ability and his personality. Among those Democrats who think he would make a good President, nearly two-thirds cite his business record, while among Republicans about half name his business achievement and the rest his personality or other factors.

Caster Defeats Freddie Hutchinson in Pitchers' Duel.

PHILADELPHIA, July 16.—(AP) Paced by George Caster's six-hit pitching, the Athletics dampened the Detroit Tigers' pennant hopes with a 3-to-1 victory today for the third triumph in the four-game series.

Like Caster, Freddie Hutchinson, making his first start for the Tigers since his recall from Buffalo, allowed only six hits, but the Athletics bunched three with "Pinky" Higgins' error in the third to score two runs. Sam Chapman added the third run with his 13th circuit clout of the season in the eighth.

NEW YORK, July 16.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox took the deciding game of their series with the New York Yankees today, 5-to-1, on Johnny Rigney's six-hit hurling and a 12-hit offensive, topped by Joe Kuhel's 15th home run.

Rigney struck out five and gave no passes in a workmanlike performance for his eighth victory. He would have had a shutout except for a single by Joe DiMaggio in the fourth, driving Red Rolfe home from second. It was the 11th consecutive game in which DiMaggio has hit safely.

Tigers Buy Uhle, Dallas Left-hander

DALLAS, Texas, July 16.—(AP) Robert (Bob) Uhle, star left-hander for the Dallas Rebels, was sold today to the Detroit Tigers for a sum of money greater than the $7,500 major league draft price for class A-1 players. President George Schepps of the Dallas baseball club, said.

Uhle, who leads the Texas League in strikeouts, will remain with the Dallas club during the remainder of the season. He has won 10 games and lost 10 this year, fanning 129 batters and walking 77.

Hagens Beat Sarazens in 3 of 4 Matches

Seven Singles Matches Slated Today at Oakland Hills.

DETROIT, July 16.—(UP)—The powerful United States Ryder cup team smashed the first day's challenge of another star group of professionals today over the end-of-the-year traps and valleys of Oakland Hills.

The Ryder squad took three of the four two-ball foursomes on the schedule. The other went to diminutive Benny Hogan and Jimmy Demaret whose chase as their opponents the top pair of Ryder men—Ralph Guldahl and Sam Snead—and whipped them one up.

Gene Sarazen's bold statement that the P. G. A. had overlooked some great golfers in selecting the Ryder team last fall started the feud which blazed over Oakland's 7,000-yard course today. The Hogan-Demaret combination proved Sarazen 25 per cent right. Tomorrow in the eight singles matches Sarazen's challengers have a chance to save themselves.

As the score stands tonight the cuppers are ahead, 3 to 1.

Hogan and Demaret posted a par-shattering 69 for the final 18 holes of the "Scotch" foursomes this afternoon, but their team-mates could not approach the performance.

Craig Wood and Billy Burke lost two down to Horton Smith and Paul Runyan; Ed Oliver and Harry Cooper were defeated five up and four to go by Henry Picard and Dick Metz; while Tom Armour and Jimmy Thompson were given a merciless beating and eight and seven by Byron Nelson and Jug McSpadden.

Sarazen was not disgruntled by the results of the first day's play. "I'm strong in the singles," he said while ribbing Walter Hagen, the non-playing captain of the Ryder team. "I'm going to play."

Sarazen named himself third among the eight selected for tomorrow's singles matches. His first two were Hogan and Demaret. The lineups tomorrow will be Snead vs. Hogan, Metz vs. Demaret, Picard vs. Sarazen, Guldahl vs. Wood, Smith vs. Lawson Little, Nelson vs. Burke, Jimmy Hines vs. Oliver and Vic Ghezzi vs. Cooper.

Proceeds go to the Red Cross.

Indianapolis Sends Mack to Barons

Langdale 000 000 001-2 6 3
Batters: Hansen and Caudhill; Bryan and Frazier.

RIVERVIEW, Ala., July 16.—T. Smith, of Riverview, and Broussard, of Lanett, waged a pitchers' battle here today, each allowed only six hits. Lanett won the game, 1-0.

Riverview 000 000 000-0 6 2
Lanett 000 000 000-0 6 0
Batters: Smith and McGowan; Broussard and Goggans.

Cubs Hammer Giants, 2 to 0; Redlegs Idle

Brooklyn Drops Back 3 1-2 Games Behind Loop Leaders.

PITTSBURGH, July 16.—(AP)—The Pirates spotted the Brooklyn Dodgers three runs today and then battled back to beat them 5-to-3 with some concentrated hitting in the sixth and eighth innings.

The loss dropped the Dodgers to three and one-half games behind the idle Cincinnati Reds.

Each team got eight hits, but Pittsburgh crowded four, including three doubles, into the sixth inning to tie the score and added two more and their winning runs in the eighth.

Tot Pressnell halted this rally, but in the eighth he gave up a triple on a single by Young, a triple by Elliott and a forfeit, and was charged with the loss.

CHICAGO, July 16.—(AP)—Wheat futures made the most impressive show of strength in a fortnight today, shooting up as much as 21-8 cents a bushel and closing virtually at the highs for the session. Corn lagged.

Trading was active on the advance which was attributed to lighter hedge selling, peace talk and a better tone in the stock market. There was some buying for mill accounts and reports that a considerable amount of wheat moving to terminals was going into storage under government loan had a bullish construction. Wheat closed 11-2 to 2 cents higher than Monday's final prices, July 14-3-4, September 15-1-4 to 75-3-8.

Miss Roquemore, Mr. Jessee Marry at Evening Ceremony

The Kirkwood Baptist church formed the setting Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock for the marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth Roquemore, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Roquemore, and John Thomas Jessee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abbie Lee Jessee. Dr. K. Owen White performed the ceremony and a program of music was presented by S. W. Hassler Jr., Mrs. J. L. Jackson and Miss Elizabeth Jackson.

The altar of the church was banked with palms interspersed with floor baskets filled with white gladioli. Seven-branched candelabra holding burning white tapers completed the decorations. The pews reserved for members of the families and out-of-town guests were marked with clusters of gladioli tied with white satin ribbons.

Ushers were Allan E. Roquemore, brother of the bride; A. C. Haynes, Fred Nash, and Grady Howard.

Mrs. Allan Roquemore, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was gowned in peach mouseline designed with a sweetheart neckline, puffed sleeves, and a bouffant skirt printed with clusters of pastel flowers. A small spray of pastel flowers held the dainty face veil in place, and her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bride. She carried a bouquet of pastel summer flowers.

Miss Meredith Rice, acting as maid of honor, wore a pink mouseline designed like that worn by the matron of honor. She wore pastel flowers in her hair and carried bouquets of summer flowers. The bridesmaids included Miss Marie Jessee, sister of the groom, and Miss Dorothy Tyre. The former wore blue and the latter wore aquamarine mouseline and they carried bouquets of summer flowers.

Little Miss Miriam Haynes was flower girl. She wore white point d'esprit posed over yellow taffeta and designed with a hoop skirt and trimmed with tiny rosebuds.

The lovely bride entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, James H. Jessee, who was best man. The bride was gowned in a beautiful model of white Alencon lace posed over white satin, which was worn by her matron of honor, Mrs. Allan Roquemore, when she became the bride of Mr. Roquemore at a ceremony taking place five years ago yesterday. The gown featured a draped neckline and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. The full, graceful skirt was designed with a court train, and a white tulle veil banded with Alencon lace, was caught to her hair with a coronet of seed pearls. Her only ornament was a gold locket, a gift of her aunt, Miss Allma Kent. She carried her maternal grandmother's lace handkerchief and a bouquet of gardenias showered with valley lilies and swainsona.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Roquemore entertained at a reception at their home on Wade avenue.

Mrs. Roquemore received her guest wearing dusty pink lace and a shoulder spray of roses and valley lilies. Mrs. Jessee chose for her son's wedding a gown of black lace with which she wore a shoulder bouquet of roses and valley lilies.

The hosts were assisted in entertaining by Misses Allma Kent, Mildred Jessee, Elizabeth Jackson, Mesdames A. E. Wright, Vista Rice, and S. W. Hassler.

The bride's table was overlaid with an exquisite lace cloth and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake adorned with calla lilies. Silver candelabra holding burning white tapers completed the table appointments.

Mrs. Jessee and his bride left for a wedding trip to Florida and upon their return they will reside with the latter's parents on Wade avenue.

Mrs. Jessee chose for traveling a navy blue sheer with which she wore white accessories and a shoulder bouquet of gardenias.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Duke and Mrs. J. W. Kent, of Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. Lillian Rice, of West Point; and Mrs. L. F. Taylor, of Forsyth.

More Vitamins Are Needed In Average Diet

By Dr. William Brady.

No, sad to say, it isn't entirely the abominable coffee that makes so many people feel so inept after breakfast when rightly one should have the world by the tail. In most instances it is just ordinary everyday modern subnutrition. Even if the coffee were good (that is, unboiled) the majority of us would still have to—no, not have to, but would still elect to worry along in a state of subnutrition, thanks largely to the way they are hoodwinked by the typical American breakfast, which is so easy to eat, so delectable, so digestible, energizing, fattening, but so deficient in the elements the refined modern diet lack—minerals and vitamins. Add the usual cupful or two of coffee, with or without cream or milk and sugar, and even an occasional couple of eggs and a few strips of bacon or ham or sausage, and still the breakfast is a humbug meal so far as fortifying or renewing the inner man is concerned.

Compare this conventional breakfast with the breakfast in the regeneration regimen or the corrective protective diet which is as follows:

A glass of orange juice—calories, 100; vitamins A, B, C, G, K; minerals Ca, Phos., iron.

Two eggs—calories, 166; vitamins A, B, D, G, E; minerals, iron, sulfur, calcium phosphorus.

Fresh fruit—calories 80; vitamins C, B, A; minerals, sodium, potassium, magnesium, copper, manganese etc.

Glass of milk—calories, 160; vitamins A, B, G; minerals, calcium, phosphorus.

In the chat we had about vite for breakfast here some time ago I suggested what I have found the easiest way for slaves of convention, living customs and circumstantial to combat the evil influence of the refined breakfast, namely, by keeping on hand a peck (one-fourth bushel, 15 pounds) of plain wheat and contriving to eat some of it every day. (Monograph "Wheat to Eat" tells how—send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for it.)

Frankly, I am afraid to print what many readers declare an increased intake of B complex and D have done for them, because it sounds like arant quackery, and heavens knows I have kept the eyebrows of the medical profession elevated too much anyway. All I shall say now is that it can do nobody any harm, to try supplementing the everyday diet with an optimal ration of vitamin B complex and vitamin D—the vitamins which nearly everybody lacks.

Wrap-Around Slip

By Lillian Mae.

The answer to your slip problems is in this ingenious style designed for both "ladies in waiting" and for larger women. Pattern 4498 is a Lillian Mae wrap-around slip that's very simple to cut and sew with the Sewing Instructor for aid. The back wrap-around is easily adjusted by four buttons at the waistline. The double thickness thus formed makes the skirt shadow-proof too. Notice that the simple front is cut in just a single piece with darts, and hold it smooth at the waist. Even the straps may be in one with the rest of the garment, though you might prefer dainty ribbon straps. An unusually comfortable, well-fitting style!

Pattern 4498 is available in women's sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3 3/8 yards 39-inch fabric and 3 3/8 yards lace edging.

Send 15 cents in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Lillian Mae's latest pattern book will help you enjoy each shining hour of summertime with new styles in easy-to-use patterns. Gone with the sun—the old-fashioned sunburn. Make your sun-tanning a beauty ritual instead of the messy performance it used to be, by selecting one of the remedies suggested by Lillian Mae, to protect your complexion from the burning rays, while at the same time allowing a sun tan to whatever degree your skin looks best.

MY DAY: Ideal Resorts For Young People

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK.—I am beginning to think that all the Chautauqua organizations have chosen charming spots for their settlements. We drove out to Chautauqua, Ohio, straight from the train yesterday and, as we drove into this summer resort, we passed gay parties and boats on the Miami river. The big swimming pool and tennis courts were crowded with young people. The cottages looked unpretentious, but attractive and comfortable.

I could not help thinking that it was an ideal place for children and young people to spend a healthy, pleasant summer. The audience was large and most attentive and the questions showed real interest in the subject, though there were a few personal ones like, "Is the color on your hat Eleanor blue?" This made everybody laugh and lightened an otherwise rather solemn talk.

We caught an earlier train than we had expected and arrived home this morning at 9:30. This gave me a chance to say good-bye to Mrs. George Huntington, who is leaving for a short time, and to look over the mail and to take a ride. The ride was not very satisfactory because the flies bother the horses so much. I shall be glad when this particularly "buggy" season is over and we can use the woods again.

The Democratic national convention, which is opening today, is going to mean much more time spent listening to the radio. But isn't it wonderful to have the radio? Some years ago it would have been impossible to know what was happening from minute to minute. I turn on my radio for the foreign news at intervals all the time. However, just as during the Republican convention, I don't want to miss any of the colorful pageantry going on in the Democratic one.

I had a most interesting letter today from Mr. Frank J. Wilson, chief of the secret service, telling me that during the past year the United States secret service has been trying to make the American public "counterfeit-conscious," and thereby to suppress the major crime of counterfeiting. They have used all the known ways to educate people through publicity and have succeeded in reducing the losses of the American people through counterfeiting from $1,151,839 in 1936 to $197,381 for the fiscal year of 1940.

The newest idea is the distribution of some colorful and attractive match folders bearing the slogan, "Know Your Money," with a brief message from the secret service to the public. I hope to see a great many people carrying these match folders, for certainly this is an educational venture in which we should all be interested. I am grateful to the secret service for the work they have done to make us conscious of how we safeguard ourselves.

THE WOMAN'S QUIZ

Q. Is it advisable to paint the new plaster in a home?

A. New plaster, being alkaline, does not afford a good foundation for paint. To neutralize the free lime, treat the walls with a solution of 3 to 4 pounds of zinc sulphate in 1 gallon of water. The solution may be applied with a calcimine brush or paint sprayer, and should be allowed to dry thoroughly before the walls are painted.

Q. How many diseases are classified as venereal?

A. The term "venereal diseases" is commonly used to designate syphilis, gonorrhea, chancroid or soft chancre, granuloma inguinale and lymphogranuloma inguinale. Considered as a group these are the most widespread of all contagious diseases. Estimates based on studies by the United States Public Health Service show that almost half a million new cases of syphilis and more than two-thirds of a million new cases of gonorrhea are treated by physicians in private practice or in clinics in the United States annually. About 1 per cent of the entire population becomes infected with a venereal disease annually.

Q. When should ornamental trees and shrubs be pruned?

A. They seldom need more than a little annual pruning. Dead, injured or diseased limbs should be removed at any time. Early spring

Have you a household problem to solve? Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, enclose a three-cent postage stamp and mail to the Woman's Editor of The Constitution's Washington Service Bureau, 1013 15th Street, Washington, D. C., for a reply. Don't telephone; write as directed.

Suntanning Is Beauty Ritual

By Lillian Mae.

Not only gone with the sun is sunburn, but with it also, the stickiness and greasiness which formerly were companions to sunburn preventives. So don't be so blinded by the sun that you allow it to catch you napping and thereby do your skin and appearance in one short summer more devastating work than 10 years of aging would accomplish.

As you bask in the sun on the beach, in your own back yard or while you are walking around town, you can be fragrant, fresh and lovely, and at the same time if you so desire, you can acquire a lovely becoming tan, to the degree you wish.

There is a liquid which as soon as it is applied, is completely absorbed by the skin, leaving behind a fresh film of moisture to preserve youthful smoothness and luminosity. While preventing blistering, burning and other summer discomforts, it invites the healthful rays of the sun to turn the color of your skin to a glowing tan. Use makeup over it if you wish, but if you prefer the luminous, shiny young look at the beach, use it without.

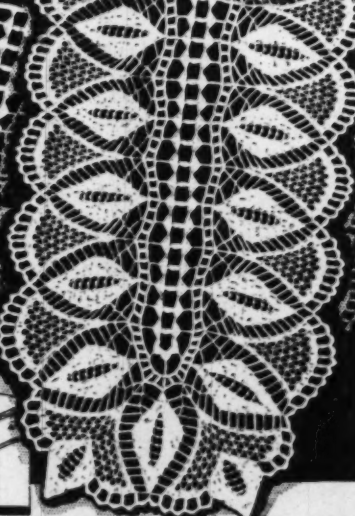

A splendid protecting powder foundation, this white creamy lotion holds makeup extremely well and smoothly while preventing sunburn and acting as a shield against the drying effects of wind. You will like it for use as foundation for your street makeup these sunny days as well as for protection while at the beach or in the country. It screens out the sun's painful rays, controls tanning process and keeps out the "hurt." It is non-sticky, and pleasantly fragrant.

From this selection of summer complexion protectors you are sure to find just what you need for your own skin and purpose. Phone me for the name of the one or ones you feel would suit you best. Write me if you do not live in Atlanta, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Of course when you are wearing a bathing or play suit, you should apply your sunburn prevention generously over your arms, legs and all exposed parts of your body, for naturally the parts which less seldom come in contact with the sun are the ones which will need the most protection.

Mother-To-Be Can Control Weight Gains

By Ida Jean Kain.

When the expectant mother gains weight all out of proportion to the gain in new tissue formation, the excess is right on the hips after the baby arrives! So naturally the mother-to-be wishes to control her weight gains. Although a reducing diet should never be followed during this time, it is perfectly safe to restrict the calories to the actual requirements.

Since there is an increased demand for minerals, vitamins and protein, the protective foods in the daily menus must be greatly increased. The fats and the refined carbohydrates which supply calories only can be cut to a minimum to restrict the weight gain. But the calorie cut cannot be made in the foods which supply the essential building materials.

One question that frequently arises is whether skim milk can be used in place of whole milk. Both skim milk and buttermilk are lacking in vitamin A and the need for this vitamin increases during pregnancy. From 5,000 to 10,000 units daily are recommended. The baby's teeth, both temporary and permanent, are largely formed before birth and their normal development demands not only a liberal supply of calcium and phosphorus, but also vitamins A, C and D. Whole milk is your best source of calcium and phosphorus as well as vitamin A. The expectant mother needs daily: one quart of milk, one egg, one ounce of cheese, and green and yellow vegetables. If skim milk is used, the diet must be supplemented with a vitamin A concentrate such as haliver oil.

Vitamin C is supplied in the three raw fruits, three raw vegetables and three cooked vegetables which must be used daily. Soda should not be added to the vegetables in cooking, and the water from the cooked vegetables should be utilized in soups, not thrown away.

To furnish adequate vitamin B, the bread and cereals must be of the whole grain, or dark variety. A dish of oatmeal in the morning, with whole milk, is an excellent source of vitamin B. If excessive weight gains make it necessary to restrict the bread and cereal, extra vitamin B1 can be taken in the form of brewer's yeast tablets or thiamin. Ask your doctor about this.

Since the baby must store iron, the mother's diet should contain liver once or twice a week, and hard-cooked egg yolk, greens, lean meats and whole grains daily. If additional iron is needed, a concentrate will be prescribed by the doctor.

The demand for calcium and phosphorus is excessive during the last 12 weeks and the mother should have five glasses of milk daily. In addition, vitamin D must be supplied so that the minerals can be efficiently used. At least one tablespoon of cod liver oil should be used daily. If the calories need to be curtailed, the vitamin D can be taken in capsule form.

The complete protein needed for the building of new body tissues is furnished in milk, eggs, cheese and lean meats and these foods should also be used daily.

Weight gains should be restricted to 15 to 20 pounds, provided the mother's weight is normal at the start. If she is overweight at the beginning, she should not gain as much as 20 pounds. In that case, the food intake should be limited to absolute calorie requirements without restricting the protein, mineral or vitamin content.

Don't miss tomorrow's article it relays advice from the famous Maternity Center Association in New York City.

Professional methods in fashion drawing may be studied at home. With the aid of charts and diagrams you can familiarize yourself with the proportions of the human body and learn to draw it in different poses.

How clearly diagrams illustrate the principles of balance, necessary to know in giving grace to your figures.

Notice that a stack of coins, if the weight is unevenly distributed, will fall. Similarly, in drawing the human figure if you distribute weight unevenly the body seems to be falling over.

Other patterns in fashion drawing you master as easily. Are you drawing a hat for an advertisement? Choose the angle which is most effective and shows the most detail. If the hat is black, "highlight" it by putting blond hair under it.

With practice you graduate from amateur to professional, are ready to draw for stores, advertising agencies, magazines. So prepare your samples—and start out!

Try This Quick Main Dish Of Creamed Dried Beef

By Sally Saver.

Often in summer, when outdoor activities have a way of keeping one away from home until the very last minute, it is useful to have in one's bag of quick tricks a recipe such as this. It is recommended too, to the woman who works and prepares meals after business hours. Wholesome, tasty and inexpensive, this main dish, suitable for dinner or supper, is made this way:

- Dried Beef Supreme.
- 4 tablespoons butter or margarine.
  - 4 tablespoons flour.
  - 1 1/2 cups milk.
  - 1/2 cup juice from peas.
  - 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.
  - 1 7-oz. jar dried beef.
  - 2 1/2 cups green peas, cooked or canned.
  - 1/2 cup toasted almonds (optional).
- Melt butter or margarine in upper part of double boiler. Blend in flour. Add milk and juice from peas very gradually, stirring constantly to keep sauce smooth. Cook slowly about 12 to 15 minutes; add Worcestershire sauce. Add dried beef cut into shreds or small pieces, add peas and almonds. Heat thoroughly and serve on buttered toast or buttered toasted biscuits.

Cup cakes or sponge cake should be kept on hand for making quick desserts. A fruit sauce, custard sauce, or whipped cream which has berries or fruits folded into it may be used between slices of cake or on cup cakes, shortcake fashion. Apple sauce may be spread between slices or plain cake, with a garnish of whipped cream making a filling quick dessert for a meal which is somewhat skimpy.

Raw carrot strips, cucumber slices, tomato wedges and other raw vegetables should be used in salads for a meal which has creamed foods for main dishes. This makes appetizing contrast.

Questions about foods, recipes, cooking or service will be answered by Sally Saver. Phone WA. 6565 or write The Constitution.

Bob Montgomery Asks Two More Months Of Leave To Continue War Relief Work

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, July 16.—Robert Montgomery is finding it difficult to switch from the horrors of European reality to the make-believe of Hollywood movies. Bob wants two more months of leave for the continuation of his Red Cross activities. When he came back from France Bob brought with him some films showing the devastation of cities in Flanders and France after the German planes had dropped their cargoes of bombs. Bob's present idea is to take this film on a tour of America and also show films of how the cities looked before the air raids. The money raised to go to the Red Cross.

Douglas Fairbanks Jr. personally guaranteed the $30,000 necessary to support for one year in this country 60 British children whose parents were or are actors. The two best and biggest cars in Hollywood are owned by Mickey Rooney and Jackie Cooper. There's a moral here somewhere, but I can't quite find it.

What price the house of commons? When Clark Gable emoted in one for "Parnell" Metro spent $110,000 for the set. For Edward G. Robinson's house of commons in "Dispatch From Reuter's" Warners spent a mere $4,000. I hope this is not an ill omen!

As you know, Vivien Leigh and Victor Fleming didn't get on any too well while they worked in "G.W.T.W." And here's one of the reasons why:

One day Vivien was feeling very soulful and asked the director, "Tell me, what do I think about in this scene?"

Victor grinned, then said, "Oh, just ham it, baby; just ham it!"

Alice Faye is facing a regular siege from Tony Martin, who is promising by the sun, moon and stars that he will do anything for

Alice—If she will take him back again. Better take him back, Alice, while he's in this mood. . . . What a place this Hollywood is! Luise Rainer, twice academy winner, was around here for weeks trying to rustle up a job. But no go. I understand she has gone back east. . . . Spencer Tracy and Louis B. Mayer are having "Tortilla Flats" trouble. Spencer wants to do it. Mr. Mayer says this is no time for a sad screen subject. Personally, I stars that he will do anything for practise.

Will Marriage Alter This Situation?

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield: My fiance and I have a fight every time we get together. If it's not about his taking too much to drink it's about my using too much lipstick. Honestly we seldom have an evening without something disagreeable. Yet in spite of this I love him and believe he loves me. What on earth can we do? We expect to get married in the fall. Is it possible that marriage would put a stop to these altercations?

ELLEN.

Answer: A marriage ceremony has no magic in it to make a man leave off liquor or to make a girl lay off lipstick. A marriage doesn't change the natures of husband or wife, doesn't give either one self-control or enable either one to hold the tongue and avoid the row. Divorce courts are fed by a constant stream of couples who ignored all such danger signals and got married believing the cat and dog stage in their relationships would pass at the altar, and that physical attraction which lured them into marriage would take care of their incompatible natures.

I'd recommend a period of probation for each of you before considering marriage, a period in which each of you agrees to refrain from fault-finding and tongue lashing and fighting. If you can't adjust yourselves to each other during engagement days, you will never do it after marriage. It is entirely possible to be attracted to a person whose nature is antipathetic, but it's not possible to live amicably and happily under the roof with a person who is always seeing something wrong with you and telling you about it, whether it's small matter of too much lipstick or a large matter of too much liquor.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Today's Charm Tip

It is assumed you need a job or you would not be seeking one. Therefore, do not take up a busy employment manager's time and try her patience with a long story of your troubles.

POINTS FOR PARENTS

By Edyth Thomas Wallace.

Father: "We must keep the yard well raked and fill up all the little holes so that baby will be safe here."

Mother: "Baby gets so restless, penned up here on the porch, but he'll fall and get hurt if I let him out in the yard."

Give the baby, who has lately learned to walk, safe opportunities for practice.

Rosser Littles Occupy Home On Mother's Lawn in Marietta

LOCATED ON the side lawn of Mrs. D. R. Little's home in Marietta is a low white brick bungalow with red tile steps, flanked by a wrought-iron rail. Often called the Dollhouse, the bungalow is the home of Rosser and Cora Gantt Little. Leading to the cathedral type entrance is a walkway of granite blocks, bordered with boxwood hedges, the latter being a wedding present to Cora and Rosser from Edith Nelson, who was a bridesmaid in their wedding.

The attractive living room of the home features a color motif of burgundy, the rich shade being combined with turquoise in the gaily printed chintz drapes. A tufted gold brocade sofa, from the Gantt home, and a table inherited from Cora's great-grandmother enhance the room. The table has a fascinating secret drawer, and ranks among the couple's most prized possessions.

The furniture throughout the house is antique, several pieces of which are early Victorian. Hanging in an oval gold frame in the living room is a colorful picture, "Winter," a gift to Cora from her erstwhile neighbor, Mrs. Chauncey Smith. The beautiful antique vases adorning the mantel formerly belonged to her grandmother, Anne Gantt, of Macon. Sally hears that the popular couple have 12 lamps in their home, all of which were presented to them as wedding gifts.

Ed Stephens, of Marietta, whose lumber company erected the house, presented Cora and Rosser as a wedding gift a built-in china cabinet for their dining room. The handsome chest of drawers here was presented by Cora's mother, Mrs. George Gantt. Hand-carved in fruit motif, it corresponds with the chairs carved in a grape design. An antique washstand holds their handsome silver. The marine blue and white sun parlor features a blue glazed chintz sofa, and affords an inviting view of the trumpet vine covering the back fence, where Cora's pet humming bird, has a nest.

Miss Catherine West Weds Mr. Hubbard at Home Rites

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. B. Graham West on Druid place formed the setting yesterday for the marriage of Miss Catherine West and Murray Hord Hubbard, which took place at 11:30 o'clock.

Rev. Eugene Few, pastor of the Druid Hills Methodist church, officiated at the ceremony, which was witnessed only by members of the two families. The couple was unattended and spoke their vows in the living room of the home, where quantities of white gladioli were used as decorations.

The bride's stately blond beauty was offset by her wedding ensemble, which featured a beautiful white silk jersey dress made with a square neck and short shirred sleeves. The shirred motif was repeated at the neckline and extended under the arms and around the back of the waist. The circular skirt featured fullness at the front. Her turban was white draped jersey and she wore a cluster of orchids at her waist.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. West entertained at a seated breakfast for their daughter and Mr. Hubbard, the guests being limited to the two families. The table was covered with an imported cutwork lace cloth and was centered with an effective arrangement of white roses and swansons.

Mrs. West, the bride's mother, was gowned in navy sheer and matching accessories. Mrs. Hubbard, the mother of the groom, wore pale blue crepe and her accessories were black.

The bridal couple left for a wedding trip of an unannounced destination. The bride traveled in an imported gray linen dress and short coat. The dress was trimmed in butter-colored linen. Her hat was gray and her accessories were butter-colored. Her flowers were orchids.

Upon their return, the couple will reside in Atlanta and will be popular additions to the younger set.

Forest Woodmen, will hold its annual picnic Thursday at Adams Park, West End, at 7 o'clock.

Miss Leedy Hogan, of Miami, Fla., who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Vaughn in West End will be an honor guest.

Dr. Roth Tells Rudi of Han's Death And Asks That He Help Freya

By PHYLLIS BOTTOME.

SYNOPSIS. The coming of the Nazi regime to Germany has brought Freya Roth, brilliant young medical student, the first unhappiness she has ever known. In love with young Hans Breiter, a Communist, she accompanies him to his mountain home where he flees the Nazis after the Reichstag has been burned. She spends the night with him, and is received by Hans' kindly peasant family as his wife. When, the next morning, Hans starts on his dangerous journey across the border to Austria and safety, Freya insists on accompanying him and his brother Karl and their friend, Seppel Neuner. Hans is just safely over the border, when a shot rings out. Freya, running forward, finds her lover lying in the snow—dead. Two men in brown shirts stand over him. As she stares, horror-stricken, there appear her Nazi stepbrother, Olaus von Roth, and her aristocratic admirer, Fritz Maberg, both in Nazi uniform. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XXXIII.

His father nodded his head. "Muller is a wise man," he agreed. "It was because I greatly trusted him that I sent you to his school. Whatever school you went to would be the same—or worse."

"But if we left this country would it be as bad for us?" Rudi ventured. "I talked to Isaac Cohen in the recess, because the others would not let us play with them. I have never liked Isaac before, but now I talk to him a good deal—and he said his father was going to take him to another country where he would be any boy's equal, however Nordic they were! I find this strange, for Isaac has a bigger nose than mine, and his hair shines, and his skin is dark!"

His father was silent for a long while. At last he said: "Italians also have dark skins and black hair—the Japanese yellow skins and shining hair—they will be, if they are not yet, the respected friends and allies of Germany—this difference of skins and features will be easily overlooked when the interests are the same. It need not concern you, unless such errors in the minds of others make it too difficult for us to use our powers. I, too, have thought of flight but there are things against it. We break up our home if we fly and your mother loses her elder sons. There is another thing, if all Jews that can fly go, then those who cannot fly will be more cruelly persecuted because they are left behind. Those of us who are rich, and well known outside Germany can, by remaining, help the unknown and weaker Jews. I do not think that I personally should fly before this storm; but I am not so sure about you and Freya. Perhaps it would be best to send you to another country, so that your education and future careers might be free. I could do this for I have friends in many other countries."

"But not alone!" Rudi gasped, a horrible dread rushing up from his heart until the future looked like a precipice. "We could not be without you and Mother—it would be better to smell like anything, and be spat at, and have stones and mud flung at us every day—than to go alone to a strange country—and leave you behind! Oh, Father, do not make us do such a horrible thing!"

"These things have already happened to you?" his father asked, ignoring Rudi's appeal.

"Well—they have—sometimes," Rudi admitted, "but always worse to Isaac, whose clothes are torn nearly every day. You see, I throw back stones and mud, and fight anyone who hits me! I find it better so!"

"And I think that you are right," his father agreed. "You should tell Isaac to do the same! Still, if many try to attack you at once, it would be well to let Herr Muller know—many together might do you or Isaac a real injury."

"But I think they will not do that," Rudi explained, "for after the Herr Muller told us about the Nordic blood, he said that to hurt even a Jew or a Communist—by numbers—was not fair play and that would be a worse disgrace to a Nazi than even to have the blood of a Jew! And he said also, "Boys, while I am your headmaster, these things shall never be done in my school, but if you do not want me—I will go!" You know how all of us love him and so, though the other masters are not so careful of us as he is one can get on very well! Do not send us away, Father, out of our country and our home!"

His father gave a short laugh that had rather a painful sound. Rudi thought, "When have I ever forced you, or Freya, to do what you did not want?" he asked. "As long as you are happier staying here with us, and I see that your work gets done, you shall stay—that I can promise you—though remember in such times as these, we can but live a day at a time and promise only within the conditions that now exist. You are strong—you have an easy, brave heart. I think that you can get on very well through your present difficulties. It was about your sister that I wished to speak to you. I am unhappy about your sister, Rudi!"

Rudi's heart sank, for he could not remember ever having heard his father express unhappiness before. He did not feel either, that he had much strength to spare to fight Freya's battles, for he had rather under than over, estimated the scope of his new difficulties. Freya was so big, too—why couldn't she look after herself?

His father seemed to have read his thoughts for he said: "She is a grown-up girl, and hers are not the same kind of battles as yours. It is not your fists I want for her! She is persecuted, like you—she has not told me of her troubles, but I know that girls say cruel things to her. Girls are less violent than boys, but what they say hurts sometimes worse than blows. Still, these things Freya can stand—it is what happens to one's friends that hurts most! Perhaps, lately you have not seen much of her friend, Hans Breiter, but I expect that you very well remember him?"

Rudi stiffened, he swallowed pain, for he had for a very long time felt jealous of Freya. She had kept Hans away from him. And Hans was still her every bit as much as Freya's friend. Hans could ski-jump 40 meters. Twice he had won the championship against Tirol, once at Kitzbuhel and once above Kufstein.

It was hard to be given a hero for a friend, and then not be allowed to see him as often as your sister did.

Hans had no prejudice against Jews, either—nor was he one himself, he was the plainest Nordic—a buttercup could not be more purely flaxen—but he had only laughed when Rudi had anxiously questioned him as to this drawback to their friendship.

"The wool of a black lamb weighs as much as the wool of a white one, doesn't it?" Hans had reassuringly suggested.

It was just selfishness on Freya's part that kept Hans away from him! And now what had happened to Hans? What could happen to him? For did he not know all about mountains and their dangers?

"I remember him, father," Rudi forced himself to say through shaking lips. "Of course I remember Hans—is there anything the matter with him?"

"It is not only Jews who suffer from the Nazis," his father said gravely. "Communists suffer as much—or more. You have heard about the Reichstag fire? The Nazis accuse the Communists of starting it. They have arrested many—and some they have killed!"

Rudi's body grew stiffer and stiffer, as if his strong elastic muscles had turned to wood or stone; his heart thumped and his eyes riveted themselves upon his father's face.

They read the truth there before his father said very gently: "They have killed your sister's friend, Hans. But without pain or torture. He died a clean, swift death—shot through the heart. Your sister had to see this thing done. That is why I am unhappy about her, Rudi."

His father did not look at him or touch him; he got up heavily and wandered away to one of his bookshelves, as if he were looking for something in a book that might help them, although nothing in a book could possibly bring back Hans.

It gave Rudi time to shake the tears from his eyes, and pretend that they had not fallen.

"It is hard for you," his father said without turning round. "You are now 12 years old. It is the coming-of-age of a Jewish boy. You remember Jesus Christ left His parents then to talk with the heads of His race? I have sometimes wondered if this persecution of the Jews by Europeans—is not a revenge because one of our sons has given them a religion that they wished to accept—and have failed to practice! It is a very dangerous thing to have an idea that you will not practice. It might well make anyone angry with those from whom the idea came. I was just hunting for something that Shakespeare said about a young man's death—I thought it might be useful to us. I find that I remember it without looking it up. 'The readiness is all.' The young man himself said this to a friend, when he was about to fight in a duel, and thought that he would be killed. He was killed; and as he died he told his friend to go on living, so that his friend might, as it were, represent him fairly to the world that he had left too soon."

"Perhaps you may have wondered why you did not see more of Hans lately, for I know that he was your friend as well as Freya's? She found that his being a Communist would be dangerous to us as a family, so although she had my permission to bring him here, she would not. She met him only where she thought one could punish us for her friendship. Freya is like that; and she has taken her punishment alone."

"I will see her!" Rudi exclaimed in a choking voice. "I will go to her now, Father—I would like to!"

"It is what I hoped that you would do," his father agreed. "None of us knew Hans as well as you did—so that she can talk of him to you, more easily than to us—and this might do her good."

Rudi nodded, he longed to ask how Freya had seen Hans die, but the words would not pass his quivering lips, nor could he see Hans as dead—he saw him so vividly as alive—a happy grin on his face, eating a chocolate Torte or running to catch a tram. Hans was such a funny fellow, and so strong that he could lift a large calf right off its four feet into the air!

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21 and April 19 (ARIES)—Previous to 10:03 a. m. may be the most eventful portion of the day, and certainly the time when you feel greater energy. You can start new beginnings that you want to progress rapidly. Between 10:03 a. m. and 2:32 p. m. a feeling of extravagance should be avoided. The remainder of the day and evening are negligible and should be used to continue affairs already underway.

April 20 and May 20 (TAURUS)—Avoid impulsiveness and ill-advised acts before 2:44 p. m., for you may feel a peculiar restlessness to do something without giving it due consideration. Between 2:44 p. m. and 9:40 p. m. favors seeking the support of superiors, favors and general business. The remainder of the evening favors pleasure.

May 21 and June 20 (GEMINI)—This will be a day of conflicting emotions, when you should avoid petty quarrels, unwise speculations. Use special care around water and liquids, and be suspicious of those who want to go into secret affairs. Be careful of your health, especially the digestive tract.

June 21 and July 22 (CANCER)—An excellent day for social relationships, dealing with friends and relatives, and work pertaining to beautifying. After 7:06 p. m. is favorable for attending or undertaking public ventures, for attending to matters that are of special importance to you.

July 23 and Aug. 22 (LEO)—Throughout the day and until 3:40 p. m. work that calls for determination and courage may be undertaken with feeling that it will progress surely, though slowly. The period favors general business activities, and for closing things that have been hanging. After 3:40 consider carefully before making drastic changes.

Aug. 23 and Sept. 22 (VIRGO)—This should be an especially favorable day, financially, socially, professionally or in business. This period favors asking favors for those in authority, or who are before the public eye.

Sept. 23 and Oct. 22 (LIBRA)—Between 10:35 a. m. and 12:22 noon does not favor making important changes. Between 12:22 noon and 7:06 p. m. favors general business matters. After 7:06 p. m. favors attending to matters especially important to you.

Oct. 23 and Nov. 21 (SCORPIO)—The entire day favors business, home, social and artistic matters. The best period of the day is between 3:38 p. m. and 7:25 p. m.

Nov. 22 and Dec. 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—Previous to 12:17 noon favors dealings with conservative people. After 12:17 noon new ventures, original ideas, intellectual matters should make rapid progress.

Dec. 22 and Jan. 19 (CAPRICORN)—The period previous to 2:13 p. m. does not particularly favor matters dealing with older and conservative people. Between 2:13 p. m. and 4:54 p. m. favors general business outline. After 4:54 p. m. favors industrial ideas.

Jan. 20 and Feb. 18 (AQUARIUS)—The period between 6:41 a. m. and 1:26 p. m. favors travel. The period favors any interest in connection with women and children. Between 1:26 p. m. and midnight favors attending to old business, but does not particularly favor new ventures.

Feb. 19 and March 20 (PISCES)—The period previous to 2:13 p. m. finishing up old matters that have been hanging fire. The period between 2:13 p. m. and 4:54 p. m. favors new business ventures, making new decisions and plans for the future. After 4:54 p. m. be especially careful as to diet and caution in travel.

WAGA—Sign Off.

CONCERT—Alexander Smallens will conduct the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra in its third program of the 1940 Lewishohn Stadium Concert season, which will be broadcast over WGST at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

Mr. Smallens has chosen Brahms' Symphony No. 3 in F for the program, which will be short-waved throughout the world by way of international stations.

COMEDY—"Bottle music" will be introduced to a waiting world by radio's two bottle babies, Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, on their "Hour of Smiles" broadcast with Benay Venuta, Harry von Zell and Peter Steeden's orchestra over WSB at 8 o'clock tonight.

The hot weather comedians, who cut their theatrical teeth in a penny arcade, have invited to the Wednesday night fun fest the "Toscanini of glassware," an individual who claims the only perfectly matched set of musical whisky bottles in the world.

The program includes: "You Can't Brush Me Off," "Love is Sweeping the Country," "Tennessee Fish Fry."

DR. CHRISTIAN—The challenge of practicing medicine in a small town is dramatized on the "Dr. Christian" program when Jean Hersholt stars in a new story, "Second Chance." It will be heard over WGST at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The play centers around young Don Cummings, whose medical education has been provided by the Business Men's Club of Nashville, a little town near River's End, where "Dr. Christian" practices. Dr. Cummings at first plans to settle down in Chicago. Then he visits Dr. Christian and changes his viewpoint.

CLASS—Another session of the "College of Musical Knowledge" will be called to order over WSB at 9 o'clock tonight when the Ole Professor, Kay Kyser, selects a group of students from the student body to submit to a musical examination.

"Playmates" featuring a trio composed of lovely Ginny Simms, Harry Babbitt and Jack Martin, will highlight the musical recesses during the hour-long show.

The program includes: "I'll Never Dream Again," "What's Love?" "I Can't Love You Any More," "There is No Heart Alone," "Six Lessons From Madame La Zonga," "Where Was I?" "Night Bird," "In the Mood."

Compliments Post Office Service But Finds It Puzzling

Compliments to the post office department. Postcard from Sam Orleans in New York addressed to me, care the "Long Dog Works," reached me promptly. Evidently the clerks had heard about my dachshund pups.

But it's odd about post office clerks. For years letters addressed to me in "Atlanta" without other address have reached me promptly at office or home.

But other letters, addressed from long obsolete mailing lists run through a machine, have wandered around and finally found me, the envelopes stamped "Directory Searcher No. 1" and then "No. 2." One would think those directory searchers had sat up all night trying to find this elusive person.

Yet for some 30 years my name has been in the city directory and the telephone book. It's been some 15 years since I've moved.

Mailing lists, like automobile batteries and love affairs, need to be rejuvenated, renewed or revised.

Away back before the World War, I occupied, temporarily, an office in the Candler building. My name got on several mailing lists. And every now and then a battered letter to that address which has drifted from here to there and back again lands on my desk. But I do not shed tears over the delay. Invariably the letters are a request for a contribution to something or other.

When Bara Posed

Letter from Dr. Craig Arnold, of Dahlonega, collector of gold nuggets and exotic plants, which he wheedles out of the botanical department of the government. He even has orchids in his steam-heated conservatory.

Craig writes about the old days of the silent cinema when Charles Braban, husband of Theda Bara, brought her up there to make a mountain story and the populace nearly wrecked the old Mountain Inn—now a heap of ashes. They couldn't see enough of Theda—though if my memory serves she did her best. And after that, when "The Great Divide" was filmed, "Pop" Lubin sent a couple of cameramen to Dahlonega for mountain scenery shots. Maybe Hollywood hadn't been born—and the California mountains were too far from New York.

I haven't talked to Dr. Arnold about the colossal new discoveries of gold in the Dahlonega region. But I think he isn't feverishly excited. He has seen 'em come and seen 'em go. Oldtimer up there told me a few years ago the town welcomed new prospectors with ideas—and money. He said they might take the ideas home with them but most of the money stayed behind—for labor and groceries.

Friend came out to our baronial estate a few afternoons ago and asked why I didn't build an outdoor barbecue pit or brick ranch, or whatever you call 'em. He said everybody else has one and I ought to keep abreast of the times. I explained I didn't have any rock or any bricks and didn't know how to build anything. And, secondly, that I didn't want one of the darn things, anyway. They seem to require that a man be the cook—and wear a white chef's cap—or a chef's white cap. And I don't like to cook. Besides a two-inch steak costs too much to be messed up by a tyro and then fed to the dogs.

Personally, I have a vague idea that these outdoor barbecues are responsible for the unparalleled season of rain we have suffered. I may be wrong, but my diary reveals I've attended seven of these al fresco steak or wiener dinners and six of them were rained out, just as the broiler got hot.

Cats Vs. Clocks.

Those odd people, the Chinese, according to a stray item, can tell the time of day by looking at a cat's eyes—the pupil becoming narrower as noon approaches and widening as the day wanes to mystic twilight. Which is all right with me, but I'd think, with fairly good watches at 59 cents in the chain stores, it would hardly pay to tote a cat around all day. You may be quick to answer that many Chinese haven't 59 cents. To which I am prompt to reply: If a fellow hasn't 59 cents what difference does it make to him what time it is?

Haven't heard for a long time of "Heaven Bound," the fine spiritual drama presented so often by the choir of Big Bethel in Atlanta. But I see it's to be presented in Columbus.

I've long had an idea that "Heaven Bound" was the inspiration for the tremendously successful "The Green Pastures." Roark Bradford, who wrote the original stories, worked several years on Atlanta newspapers. And the play Marc Connelly built from those yarns was remarkably like the Big Bethel production.

Grapevine report says next year's automobile tags will continue to bear the picture of a peach but the 1941 peach will look more like a peach.

But don't blame the artists of 1940. An artist must work from a model. And what native Georgian, unless he sleeps in an orchard, ever saw or tested an A-No. 1 Georgia peach? This year's artists will go to New York or Chicago, where the good ones go, and pay a dime for a model.

Consider the rooster, symbol of proud arrogance.

He gets up at dawn and announces it to the world, once or twice. Then quits and sets about scratching up worms for his harem.

But consider the male of the human species. Let him crawl from under the sheet before 7 a. m. and he crows about it all week.

Young 'Cowboys' Are All Eyes

'COWBOYS' DRINK IT IN Eyes a-goggle as they hug their knees, these two youthful "cowboys" watch their elders run the Democratic national convention in Chicago. They're taking an early dive into politics. The two youngsters are the sons of John J. O'Hern, a Texas delegate.

RAINBOW GIRLS

Meet the "Rainbow Girls"—pretty Illinois Young Democrats—as they fling leaflets citing the Democratic record from the speakers' stand at the Chicago convention.

FOE of war is Mrs. Thomas McAllister, director of the women's division of the Democratic national committee. She told the Democratic convention, "As Democrats we are opposed to war for reaction thrives on war."

BUOYANT MOOD Two Georgia boys seem to be having the time of their lives at the Chicago conclave. They are (left to right) M. Cornelis, Cedartown, and State Senator V. C. Daves.

Madam Perkins vs. Chicago Food

DOWN THE HATCH And here's Secretary of Labor Perkins again (left), giving her food-grinders a vigorous workout at the Democratic women's breakfast in Chicago. She openly forecast a third term for President Roosevelt. At right is Mrs. Robert Jackson, winsome wife of the attorney general.

Believes Nazi Lull Logical Preliminary To Next Move.

Prime Minister Churchill's assurance that Britain is prepared to fight for her life with a will power equal to Hitler's is about to be put to the supreme test.

Whether that test will come first as a "fourth front" German attack, offering England peace terms far short of the abject surrender forced on France, or as an attempted mass invasion of England within days is disputed by seemingly conflicting diplomatic versions. It is crystal clear, however, that the Nazi-Fascist partners are carefully preparing for their next dramatic strike; and the Churchill broadcast last Sunday was designed to brace hearts and wills for the shock, whichever way it comes.

Against the background of Rome reports that Hitler is preparing, in consultation with his axis ally, to voice a formal "peace blitzkrieg" proposal, the curious lull in intensity of the German "softening-up" air attack on England becomes significant. It represented the first such lull of the month since the battle of Britain started June 18.

It is arguable that such a lull could be expected as a prelude either to initiation of an all-out air attack or invasion, or to pave the way for a new axis gesture in the form of a virtual ultimatum. Whatever the form of German attack forecast by Churchill as immediately impending—but which he added might "never come"—a temporary easing of the pressure of Nazi air bombing would seem a logical preliminary.

Breathing Spell?

Should it follow the course predicted in Rome, or a Hitler peace-or-destruction ultimatum to England, there would be good reason from the axis viewpoint for granting the British public a breathing spell in which to think over the grim lesson of experience taught by a month of incessant day-and-night Nazi bombing. No part of England has escaped first-hand knowledge of what death and destruction from the air mean. Nor can there be doubt in the minds of any substantial part of the British public that what has yet happened is only a sketchy foretaste of what may happen if all-out Nazi air warfare is turned loose against them.

It remains to be seen whether the indicated hope in Italy and Germany that the time is ripe for a psychological "fourth front" offensive on Britain is well founded, or whether Churchill has accurately gauged the temper and resolution of his countrymen in hurling war-to-the-death challenges at his arch foe, Hitler. In any event, the synchronizing reports in Swiss and French circles that Germany has massed more than half a million men and a vast flotilla of big and little craft for their transportation to invade England might well be Nazi window dressing for such a Hitler peace ultimatum as Rome reports in contemplation.

There is one factor, however, that conceivably should serve to give British war leadership a far clearer understanding of what actually is impending in a military way than any rumors in circulation in European diplomatic quarters. The major German attack by air, by submarine or by invasion on England must necessarily be based very largely on territory hostile to Germany though conquered.

Berlin Picture.

Berlin draws a picture of that German attacking force as now mustered along the wide sea front of the European continent from Bergen in Norway to the Franco-Spanish border nearly 2,000 miles to the south. Norwegian, Danish, Dutch, Belgian and French residents still mourning their lost national liberty and also the family casualties of the war must be well aware of German troop concentrations or supply dumps and extemporized airdromes in their own vicinity, and eager to pass that information along to the British.

German commanders in Holland have already taken steps to suppress suspected sources of military information leaks. It is utterly impossible, however, for the Germans to establish an air-tight patrol of the whole vast continental coast line and prevent all communication between British sympathizers ashore and British submarines or other craft lurking at night off shore.

Such bits of information as former Allies can pass along could be of inestimable value to the British. They could provide an accurate forewarning of all-out attack, and they could also be a guide to counter attack by air on the most vulnerable centers of the far-flung German front.

Postal Clerks To Hear George and Ramspeck

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. MACON, Ga., July 16.—Senator Walter F. George and Congressman Carl Ramspeck are expected to be the featured speakers at the 13th annual convention of the Georgia Federation of Post Office Clerks, to be held here Friday and Saturday.

Other scheduled speakers include President Lee E. George, of Washington, of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks, and Mrs. Herman Lowe, of Nashville, president of the National Woman's Auxiliary. The Georgia branch of the auxiliary also will meet here.

Plans for a 30-year optional retirement plan, longevity pay increases and other issues are expected to be discussed during the convention.
